Mansfielder Killed, 8 Area Residents Hurt In Traffic

Navy Vet Thrown From Car

10 Lose Lives In Ohio Mishaps

Virgil Ray Harden, 25, of 159 East Third street, was killed and Mrs. Lena Atwood, 29, of 214 Seventh avenue, was injured when Harden's car struck a bridge abutment near Chillicothe early Sunday.

Harden was one of 10 persons who met violent death in Ohio over the week end. Seven Shelby residents were injured late yesterday in a three-car collision on State Route 61.

According to Chillicothe police, Harden's car, traveling south on State Route 23, struck the abutment and rolled over three times, throwing him from the car. Police said Harden died of a broken neck. Mrs. Atwood, a passenger in the car, was reported in "good" condition in Chillicoths hospital today after suffering scalp wounds.

Police said the accident occurred at 1:24 a. m. Sunday. Harden's body has been returned to the Wappner funeral home where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Born Sept. 11, 1923 in Mt. Gilead, Harden spent the greater part of his life in Mansfield. He was employed at Humphryes Manufacturing company at the time of his death. He served four years in the navy in World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Maurine and daughter, Beverley, visiting with Mrs. Harden's parents in Portland, Ore.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Harden of the East Third street address; a brother, William Harden in the U.S. Navy, stationed at San Diego, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Peter Majyer, Mrs. Ivan Roseberry and

Candidates Taking Rest

(By United Press)

President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey took a breather today while their political strategists lined up other campaign trips for them.

Apparently none of the worse for wear after his 8,000-mile western tour, Mr. Truman was ready to resume his "crusade" against the "special interests" on Wednesday.

On a four-day swing through the northeast, he plans to hit Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and up-state New York, areas which sent numerous Republican representatives to the 80th Congress.

Next Sunday both presidential candidates will head into the midwest. The President will visit Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Dewey's itinerary still is under consideration, but he will wind up his trip in Minneapolis, Oct. 16.

Orchestra Leader Fails To Rally

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—Orchestra leader Jan Savitt died today in the Sacramento county hospital.

Savitt, who was 39, suffered a stroke Saturday while riding in a station wagon from Hollywood to the California capital.

Airliner Lost With 21 Aboard

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Twin-engined charter airliner with 21 persons aboard was "presumed down at sea" today after it sounded distress calls somewhere between Charleston, S. C., and Nassau Bahamas.

The civil aeronatics administration official listed the plane as owned by the New England Air Express company of Teterboro, N. J., and said "an accident is presumed to have occurred."

The plane's gasoline supply was exhausted at 4:45 a. m. (EST). It was last heard from, calling the international distress signal "Mayday" at 1:44 a. m.

"We can only presume the plane is down somewhere between Charleston and the Bahamas," the CAA said. "Its gasoline is gone and we haven't heard from it for several hours."

The charter airliner, a DC-3, was en route from Teterboro to San Juan, Puerto, Rico. It departed Teterboro at 7:30 p. m. yesterday.

SIGNALS HEARD

The first distress signal was picked up by the CAA's listening post in the Everglades at 12:21 a. m. It was heard on a regular communications frequency. The coast guard, other CAA stations and federal communications commissions were alerted, in an effort to get a "fix" on the distressed aircraft.

The pilot was instructed to lock his sending key to cause a continuous signal in hope of making a "fix." The signal was heard in Puerto Rico, Jamaica and Miami but died before a cross-bearing could be obtained.

The CAA said the plane carried 17 passengers and four crewmen. Only person identified was the pilot, Richard Roy Olivere, of Port Chester, N. Y., president and general manager of the airline. Others aboard are a pilot, co-pilot, stewardess, extra pilot and 17 passengers.

Frost Nips North Ohio

Shivering Mansfielders got a preview of winter today when the mercury dropped to a chilly 38 degrees, lowest of the new fall season.

While frost was reported along Lake Erie, there apparently was no damage to garden crops or flowers in the Mansfield area. Corn in the county is past the frost damage stage.

The temperature climbed to 56 at noon today in Mansfield, and the weatherman said the cool spell would remain until tomorrow with frost probable tonight.

Frost covered field and garden crops across the northern states this morning. Cadillac, Mich., reported the lowest reading, 25 degrees.

Coldest spots in Ohio today were Youngstown, with a low of 33; Perry, 34, and Canton, 36.

Track Travel Too Tricky, Warns Hobo

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Jeff Davis, 66-year-old king of the hoboes, today advised youngsters to ride the cushions instead of the rods.

"It don't do any good to try and flip a freight today, anyway," he said. "These new-fangled trains are too slick for a feller to catch hold."

Davis visited Chicago in an unaccustomed role—he was the official guest of all the nation's railroads at the final day of the Chicago Railroad fair yesterday.

"I've been a non-paying guest of the railroads many times," he said. "But this is the first time they ever invited me."

Davis, who said his organization has been discouraging youngsters from hitting the road, has been lobbying in Washington to set up a fund for youthful sightseers. He said if the youths were allowed to see the country's sights they would be willing to stay home afterwards.

CONTEST ON—Here are the 13 red-tied "fire demons" for the week. Mansfielders will have to fill in the faces. The six "demons" in the front row are holding the fire extinguishers which will be given away, one each day for the rest of this week. All you have to do to win is ask the designated one of the 13, "Are you the fire demon for today?"

'Fire Demon' Hunt Starts

Prevention Week Gift Waits Finder

The hunt is on in Mansfield for the "fire demon" of the day. As one of the features of Fire Prevention week, one fire extinguisher a day will be awarded to the first person who asks the designated red-tied Mansfielder: "Are you the fire demon for today?" There will be 13 of these "demons" identifiable by red neckties, roaming the city each day, but only one of these will be the "right one" on each day.

Climaxing the week's festivities will be a parade Saturday night at 7:30 p. m. Prizes of $25, $10 and $5 will be offered for the best floats.

All of the city's fire stations will have open-house this week. A $10 prize will be awarded to the person who comes closest in guessing Mansfield's fire loss for September.

For school children there will be a poster contest and a soapbox fire department contest. Poster prizes are $10, first; $5, second, and $2, third. A $25 wood carving set is first prize in the soapbox contest; second prize is a $10 camera, and third prize a $5 model airplane kit.

In addition, the first four prize winners will receive a free trip to the Ohio State-Michigan football game in Columbus as the guests of Fire Chief L. J. Steele.

Bulbar Polio Kills 3 Sons

DES MOINES —(AP)— Bulbar polio, which claimed the lives of two boys of the Ray B. Brandhorst family, Manning, Ia., since Thursday, has stricken the family's last surviving son.

He is Dennis Brandhorst, 9, who was admitted to a hospital yesterday. Hospital authorities said he is suffering from the same type of disease that resulted in the death of his two brothers.

The older brother, Donald, 14, died Thursday, just five hours before the second brother, Dale, was admitted to the hospital. Dale died Saturday.

Registration Deadline Near

Election Board Office Jammed

Long lines formed at the Richland county board of elections in the courthouse basement today as the deadline for registering approached. The deadline for registrations (or transfers) for the November general election is 9 p. m. today.

Ralph Hardy, chairman of the county Republican executive committee, and Marshall C. Moore, chairman of the Democratic central committee, urged persons to register, if they are not already registered.

Both reported that their organizations have been working to get persons out to register. Both said the various precinct organizations have been doing that work for their respective organizations.

Hardy said they've assisted some to register by sick affidavit since they were unable to go to the board offices, while others were taken in cars since they could not go otherwise.

Those who must register include persons who have not voted in the last two elections, those becoming 21 by Nov. 2, persons who voted while in the armed services, but have not voted in the last two years, and persons who moved into Ohio a year ago or into Richland county in the past 30 days.

Troops Nip Peru Revolt

LIMA, Peru — (AP) — Government troops held full control over the port of Callao today after smashing a bloody revolt by sailors and civilians.

The insurgents, who seized and used the full firepower of warships and heavily armed naval installations at Callao, Lima's port, launched the revolt early yesterday.

By late last night, government infantrymen, supported by tanks and fighter planes, had rooted the rebels out of their fortified strongholds and apparently had captured them all.

There was no official indication of the number of casualties or of how many persons took part in the revolt. All accounts indicated, however, that the number of dead and wounded was large. An army authority said there were so many casualties that trucks probably would be used to augment ambulances in carrying them away.

The government of President Jose Luis Bustamente Rivero said in a communique it had confirmed that the opposition Aprista party had "inspired and directed" the revolt. The communique said many armed civilians affiliated with Aprista were arrested.

Ickes, Truman Talk

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman set aside time today to talk with former Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, who quit the cabinet in a huff two and a half years ago. There was no advance word on the purpose of the mid-way meeting. Ickes requested the appointment.

Mother, Baby Die In Blaze

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Mrs. Geraldine Canada, 17, and her two-week-old daughter, Debra Ann, were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their four-room house.

William F. Canada, 24, husband and father, escaped from the flaming house after trying unsuccessfully to rescue his family. The fire started when a coal oil stove exploded.

The bodies of the mother, who had celebrated her 17th birthday yesterday, and of the baby were found lying on a bed in the smouldering ruins of the house on the west side.

ARRESTS NIP PLOT

BANGKOK—(AP)—The government today claimed week-end arrests of some 80 army officers had nipped a plot to overthrow Marshal Phibun Songram's regime.

Wait All Night For Cleveland-Boston Tickets

Cold, Hunger Fail to Discourage Fans

BOSTON — (AP) — A cold and hungry crowd of 15,000 stormed Fenway park today to get 8,500 bleacher seats to the Red Sox-Indians pennant- playoff game.

More than 2,000 fans spent the night camped outside the park waiting for the box office to open at 9 a. m. EST.

The temperature was only eight degrees above freezing during the night — but the cold didn't discourage many, if any.

Several persons fainted either from hunger or exhaustion and several fist-fights developed over places in line.

"You can't arrest anyone for fighting for a ticket for this game," commented one cop. "If I wasn't on duty I'd be in line myself."

Baseball's attraction covers a wide range — with neither sex nor age much of a factor.

One of the all-night standees was Joan Wolsey, 17-year-old Winchester, Mass., high school cheer leader. She collapsed while waiting in line with her father, but was revived with a hot breakfast.

And, there was some gallantry among the crowd — for she got her place in line back.

It was a strange sight—campfires blazing on a busy street in the heart of staid old Boston . . . Some of Boston's most respected citizenry sleeping on the sidewalk covered only with newspapers . . . Others on Army cots . . . in sleeping bags . . . Jugs of coffee (and other jugs, too) were passed around to keep the fans warm . . .

Two Providence, R. I., rooters —Paul McNeill and Emelio Gabriele — were among the first in line.

They quietly set up camp for bleacher seats — at 6:30 p. m. (EST) last night. This meant a 14½ hour wait as these tickets don't go on sale until 9 a. m. this morning.

Milk Price To Drop Tuesday

Production Up In City Area

Following the lead of Cleveland area dairies, Mansfield's milk distributing concerns have ordered the price of milk lowered one cent, effective Tuesday.

The price of a quart of regular milk will be 21 cents, one cent below the record high of 22 cents put into effect on Aug. 1 when the price was hiked two cents, from 20 to 22 cents. Homogenized milk will be one cent higher.

The direct cause of the drop in both Cleveland and Mansfield was a reduction in the cost of bulk milk at the wholesale level, dealers said.

FEED COST DOWN

Agricultural economists said a huge feed crop, bringing lower feeding costs, was responsible for the lower milk price.

Prices fell a cent last week in Ashland and other communities north and east of Mansfield.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, the largest run of hogs since July 13 sent prices 75 cents to $1 lower. The resultant top of $26.25 per hundredweight marked the lowest price since June 16.

Officials at the stockyards listed the run at 15,500, including 2,000 sent directly to the packers.

Reject Plea By Daniels

Judges Overrule New Trial Request

A three-judge court has overruled a motion for a new trial, filed on behalf of Robert Murl Daniels, Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch said today.

Daniels on Sept. 17 was sentenced to die Jan. 3 in the electric chair for the murder of three members of the John E. Niebel family last July.

Judge Kalbfleisch heard the case with Judges H. E. Culbertson of Ashland county, and Chester Pendleton of Hancock county.

Judge Kalbfleisch said he had written to the other two judges and that the three have agreed that there is no basis for granting a new trial.

He said a certified copy of the journal entry is being sent to Daniels, who is in the Ohio penitentiary.

Attorney Lydon H. Beam, court-appointed counsel for Daniels, said today that he had informed the Daniels family of their rights of appeal. He added that his duties had ended with the trial here. Beam said he had been appointed by the court to defend Daniels here and that the Daniels family would have to obtain the services of another attorney if they wanted to carry the case further.

Mrs. Sturges Found Dead

Mrs. Barbara Comly Stevens Sturges, 31, wife of Paul E. Sturges jr., of 791 Andover road, was found dead in bed early Sunday at her home.

Coroner D. C. Lavender said she died of natural causes and apparently had been dead about two hours when her husband awakened at 6 a. m. and called police.

Members of the family said she appeared in good health when she retired.

Mrs. Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stevens, was born [illegible] Port Chester, N. Y., Feb. 5, [illegible]. She came to Mansfield seven years ago at the time of her marriage.

She was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church, the Buckeye Garden club and the Charity club.

Survivors, in addition to her husband, include two children, Paul Stevens Sturges and Helen Ann Sturges; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stevens; two sisters, Mrs. Bradley Green and Miss Helen Stevens; and one brother Henry Stevens, all of Greenwich, Conn.

The body was moved from the Jones Memorial early today to the family home and will remain there until time of services.

Rev. T. M. Downey, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, will conduct funeral services at the church at 10:45 a. m. Tuesday. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Real Thing Puts End To Fire 'Show'

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. —(AP)— A Fire Prevention week demonstration was called off yesterday because of a fire.

Firemen, manning their brightly polished apparatus, were demonstrating methods of extinguishing various types of blazes in Bone stadium here when an alarm was sounded at a coal breaker and silt refining plant.

The firefighters abandoned their exhibition and, went to the real blaze, working for more than an hour before putting out minor fires started by sparks in a half-dozen nearby homes and business places. The breaker and refining plant were destroyed. The Fire Prevention week demonstration was not resumed.

Conservation Election Set Oct. 22

Land Owners Will Act on County Plan

Owners of farm land in Richland county will vote Oct. 22 on whether they want a soil conservation district set up for the county. Balloting will take place in the voting precincts of the various townships, which will be open from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Anyone who owns three acres or more of land in Richland county is eligible to vote on the question. A 65 per cent majority is required for the referendum to pass, in which case the State Conservation committee will authorize the organization of a conservation district for the county.

More than 300 farm owners petitioned the State Soil Conservation committee to establish a district in Richland county.

The steering committee which has been working on the project are Kenneth Nixon, Warren Smith, A. A. Mellick, Waldo Crum, A. L. Lockheart, and Harvey Snyder.

The committee explained that a soil conservation district, which would be set up under the State Soil Conservation District law, would be a legally constituted unit of local government. Its business would be conducted by an elected board of five landowner directors, serving without pay.

The program consists of conserving soil and water resources by erosion control, drainage, checking of fields, highway erosion control, woodlot and pasture improvement, improved rotations and cropping practices.

All landowners are entitled to receive the services of the district, but no one is compelled to use the services of the district. Services will be extended through request.

Gallantry Brings Him Peck of Woe

Gallantry got 19-year-old Elmer Perry, Mansfield, R. D. 1, into a peck of trouble early today.

Taking his girl friend home in the family car, Perry missed the Twitchell crossing on Leppo road and the car wheels lodged in the tracks.

Then Perry heard a Pennsylvania freight train approaching. He left the car and flagged down the train.

The train stopped and Perry ran to a neighboring farmer's house for help. The farmer brought his tractor and pulled the car free.

But, by that time, the railroad officials had heard of it and notified the sheriff's office. Deputies, dispatched to the scene found that Perry had no driver's license. The youth pleaded guilty in municipal court today and was fined $5 and costs.

The girl friend? She got scared and ran home.

Pioneer Atlantic Flier Dies at 62

SWANSEA, Wales —(AP)— Sir Arthur Whitten-Brown, 62, navigator of the first airplane to fly the Atlantic ocean non-stop, died today.

Whitten-Brown and Pilot Sir John Alcock opened the era of trans-Atlantic flying in June, 1919, when they flew a converted World War I Vickers Vimy bomber from Newfoundland to Ireland. Alcock was killed in an air crack in France later that year.

PHILANTHROPIST DIES

Urge New Big 4 Talk On Issue

Battle Begun By Vishinsky

PARIS — (AP) — Russia told the United Nations security council today it has no right to consider western charges the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a menace to world peace.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky led off his fight to keep the Berlin issue out of the council's hands. He declared the western demand for UN consideration of the dispute was "devoid of any ground, as it does not fall within the scope of the security council."

The issue, he said, should be sent to the big four council of foreign ministers, as a formal note from Moscow proposed earlier today.

Vishinsky declared the UN charter forbids the council to discuss anything concerning Germany until the four occupying powers have written a peace treaty for the beaten country.

Taking the argument to the foreign ministers' council, he said, offers the only legal way to settle the problems of Germany, including Berlin which has been under a Soviet land blockade since last June 23.

He said the Berlin problem is closely linked to the whole German problem. He charged that the currency reform in western Germany last June was an "act of aggression" against the Russian occupation authorities and had forced the Russians to take "defensive measures."

MINISTERS MEET

Meanwhile, United States, British and French foreign ministers met to discuss Russia's call for resumption of big four talks.

U. S. Secretary of State Marshall, Britain's Ernest Bevin and their top advisers on German affairs met with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman in Schuman's office, a French spokesman reported.

They had before them fully translated texts of a Russian note, received in the early hours of this morning, which replied to their notice to the Kremlin last week that they considered direct east-west negotiations for a Berlin settlement a failure.

The note was a reply to the western power notes of Sept. 26 breaking off four-power negotiations in the Berlin crisis and announcing the question would be taken to the United Nations security council.

The note declared: "The United States government's declaration that a situation has arisen which allegedly threatens international peace and security does not correspond with the real state of affairs and constitutes nothing more than a means of pressure and an attempt to use the United Nations for the achievement of its aggressive aims."

The Russians proposed that the directive to the four military commanders in Germany, drawn up after a long series of four-power talks in the Kremlin, should be used as a basis for settling the Berlin situation.

The note detailed the Soviet version of the agreement reached in the Kremlin talks with Soviet Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov and included what it said was the text of the directive.

It blamed the three western powers for failure to reach an agreement to end the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

French Coal Pits Closed

PARIS—(INS)—More than 320,000 coal miners in France's vital northern pits went on strike today, posing a new threat to Premier Henri Queuille's shaky coalition government.

Government officials expressed fears that 173,000 tons of badly-needed coal will be lost daily during the walkout.

A new communist-led nationwide strike wave appeared to be shaping up, with public utilities and post offices scheduled tto walk out on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The government has already posted troops at some mines in anticipation of violence.

The miners are demanding wage increases and are protesting proposed personnel cuts in the nationalized pits.

The struck mines provide half of France's domestic coal supply.

Frankfurter Cult's Sinister Activities Now Coming to Light

WASHINGTON—The power of the invisible government which Felix Frankfurter's cult set up within the government of the United States after he had boldly wangled his own appointment to the Supreme court is strongly suggested by information which has been revealed this summer.

It has been known for years, of course, that Frankfurter's tricky Harvard law proteges were spotted in influential places in practically all of the experimental radical bureaus of the new deal.

There were so many of them and they were so impudent and flippant in tossing around the rights and aspirations of the American people that their existence as a distinct clique or corps was commonly appreciated.

In those early days, General Hugh Johnson amiably referred to them as Frankfurter's happy hot dogs. If he had lived, Johnson probably would be less tolerant of their mischief today. He was, first and last, a patriot, although he had a juvenile streak which moved him to go traipsing after the Pied Piper who was going to cure everything by conquering fear and who flattered him by selecting him to administer the fascist N. R. A.

But neither did the rest of the people nor even the sourest skeptics in Washington quite appreciate the sinister nature of Frankfurter's silent process of penetration.

We learned on authority early this summer in the memoirs of Harold Ickes that Frankfurter did not wait for distinction to come to him but went campaigning for a job on the Supreme court in a time when political and ideological prejudices were to be substituted more and more for law. His reputation was synthetic and almost entirely the result of publicity and posturing on noisy issues.

Long ago, Theodore Roosevelt had called him to time charging him with willful failure to disclose material truth in the Bisbee deportation case. He had a great claque at Harvard and he got the benefit of Harvard's ancient prestige in a day before that prestige had been turned into sordid notoriety by the disclosures of the Thomas committee on un-American activities.

Actually Frankfurter was coarse, mysterious and superficial, and I have interviewed one former memb.. of his class who would say that he taught more lawyer-craft than law.

He would say so if he had to. But, for the time being, he would prefer not to because he is a government employe and, with good ground, afraid that he would be fired for antagonizing Frankfurter's hidden power

★

Ickes wrote that he learned, on the inside of the seething conspiracy which Roosevelt substituted for government, that Frankfurter was lobbying Roosevelt for a job on the Supreme court. There was no false modesty in him. He wanted that place and the power that went with it. And, Ickes further disclosed, it was Frankfurter who chose for secretary of war, and put him over, Henry L. Stimson, Frankfurter's old boss in the U. S. attorney's office in New York. Mr. Stimson was an amenable old man who went along with the great plan to demolish Hitler and save Stalin and Russia before the United States tackled the only enemy which had attacked the United States, Japan.

Rockefeller Insists on Giving Something Away, So Story Says

Memos of a Girl Friday—Dear Mr. W.: This delightful Winthrop Rockefeller story just came over the phone . . . The day his son was born (at Polyclinic Hospital) the young zillionaire went up to a nervous parent-to-be and exclaimed: "Just had a boy! Have a cigar!" . . . "Congratulations," said the man. "I don't smoke cigars." . . . "Then have a cigarette," said Rockefeller. . . . "I don't smoke at all, but thanks," said the fellow. . . . "Join me in a drink?" asked Winthrop. . . . "I don't imbibe, but thanks," said the chap. . . . "Then fergoodnessakes, take something!" persisted Rockefeller, handing the stranger a $100 bill as he left.

★

Tried checking this, but couldn't locate her. I hear Tallulah Bankhead will introduce President Truman for his speech here. . . . Friend of mine wrote to the Pennsy railroad requesting a bedroom to Miami for next January. They replied: "Sorry, can't promise anything. Such a long list ahead of you." . . . Leni Riefenstahl, who headed the late Goebbels' poisoned-film propaganda, is trying to get back into German film making. She's using an American major ("her close friend") as her sponsor. Prob'ly Ilse Koch's too. Isn't it a shame to see them putting Frau Koch on a train home instead of a lamp?

"Rope of Sand," which Hal Wallis is filming, has irked the Warners, who claim the title conflicts with their "Rope." Likewise 20th Century-Fox is upset because it owns a picture named "Sand." So it looks like Mr. Wallis will simply have to call his movie "Of". . . . Russell Birdwell says there never was any suit or threat from Venita Varden (his business partner), and it apparently was planted by someone who wants to hurt him. . . . Rex Ingram, the actor, charged with transporting a 15-year-old girl to New York may be confronted by another underage girl from Floriday, who shot back just in time.

Can't get Peter Bostwick, the polo ace (or Mrs. Bostwick) on the phone to check that buzz. . . . You wanted the name of the remarkable dancing team at Le Directoire. They are The Szonyies of Hungary. They are brother and sister. Their ballet spins and graceful style are thrilling. . . . Abe Burrows (a recent click at Ciro's H'wood) is booked at L'D starting Oct. 21st. . . . You retracted that thing about Joan Brandon of the Horseshoe, but you shouldn't have. An "admirer" did throw a sock at her pretty jaw and she was out of the show for days. The item scared all concerned. . . . The ultra-swank Pierre operators say: "He don't answer," when a guest doesn't answer.

Have some nonsensorship: An adv. agency exec refused permission to Walton & O'Rourke to have their wonderful dowager puppet televised! . . . Did you know that the gangster taken for a ride was married to a "name" singer? . . . Parents Magazine just awarded Orson Welles' "Macbeth" the Medal of Special Merit. It will say in its mag that the Italian critics' censure of it was unjust, etc. . . . Disc jockeys have to be careful how they spot Blue Barron's new ditty, "You Were Only Fooling." The other eve'g it was played right after a candidate's speech. . . . A national campaign is due in the mags and papyrus "to make men corset-conscious" and hide their bulges. . . . Your line about Nevada Smith wanting a stage role "as she is tired of just walking around cafe floors looking beautiful" got a part for her. Where can I locate La Dollpuss?

148 MPH Top Speed at Plane Meet

2,000 See Models Put Through Paces

Seven Mansfielders placed among the winners in model airplane meet yesterday afternoon in the face of a stiff wind at Municipal airport. Sixty-eight hobbyists from Ohio and Michigan put their buzzing little models through their paces at speeds as high as 148 mph before an estimated crowd of 2,000 people.

Arthur Aegerter, 624 Highland avenue, and Harold Heston, 312 Fairlawn avenue, swept first and second places respectively in the open jet event.

Aegerter's roaring jet-driven model was clocked at 128 miles an hour as it sped in a circle at the end of a 70-foot line. Heston's plane made the distance just two-miles-an-hour slower.

Three Mansfielders took second places. They included Robert Carmen in the Class D junior event, Jay Stephens in the junior stunt event and Clifford Durbin in the open stunt event. Two more third places were taken by Carmen, one in the Class B junior event; the other in the Class C junior event.

Top speed clocked for the afternoon was 148 miles per hour in the Class D open, won by S. Ambler of Cleveland.

In all events Stanley Siemenski, Cleveland, chalked up 27 points. A. Sutton, Attica, took first place in the junior stunt event.

Winners in the various classes and speed made by the planes include:

Class A junior (under 18): First, J Breen, Lakewood, 119 mph; second, R. McCaughey, Zanesville, 55 mph.

Class A open (over 18): G Waterfield, Sandusky, 118 mph.

Class B junior: J. Breen, 111 mph; L. Boesken, Lakewood, 106 mph; R. Carmen, Mansfield, 95 mph.

Class B open: C. McCracken, Willowick, 135 mph. S. Siemenski, Cleveland, 119 mph; G. Treuter, Detroit, 108 mph

Class C junior: A. Stegens, Cleveland, 119 mph; L. Mettatal, Plymouth, Mich., 112 mph; R. Carmen, 89 mph.

Class D junior: L. Mettatal, 118 mph; R. Carmen, 85 mph.

Class D open: S. Ambler, Cleveland, 148 mph; M. Lutz, Garfield Heights, 136 mph; S. Siemenski, 120 mph.

Jet, open: First, A. Aegerter, Mansfield, 128 mph; second, H. Heston, Mansfield, 126 mph.

M. L. Phillips Dies In Dayton

Marshall L. Phillips, 55, former Mansfielder, died Sunday at the Veterans Administration hospital in Dayton, after a lingering illness, relatives here announced today.

Mr. Phillips, brother-in-law of Louis A. Them of Mansfield, was a veteran of World War I, having served with the 32nd infantry division. He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church and the Knights of Columbus.

Surviving are his wife, Helen A. Phillips; a son, Marshall A. Phillips; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Hickey and a sister, Mrs. Mary Diebler.

While a resident of Mansfield Mr. Phillips worked as a painter and decorator.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Gift Scooter Aids Victim of Polio

By EILEEN DEWHURST

Harold B. Rush, of Hayesville, 31-year-old victim of infantile paralysis is finding it a little easier to get around today, thanks to the generosity of the Mansfield Lions club.

Nine members of the Lions club went to Rush's home the other day to present him with a motor scooter which can be operated without the use of his legs. The gift was a surprise to Rush and was the result of a project which was started last March.

The Lions club heard about Rush at that time and a committee made up of Kenneth Sloan, Charles Kafer and Robert Horn began a search for the best equipment possible to replace the home-made vehicle Rush had constructed for himself.

Rush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rush of Hayesville, was stricken with infantile paralysis when he was nine months old. He lost all use of his legs as a result of the illness, but he refused to become a helpless invalid.

Although Rush is able to get around with the use of leg braces and crutches, he couldn't attend school with the other children. He was tutored in his home and received his diploma after completing high school work.

LEARNED A TRADE

Rush is mechanically inclined and he took up industrial arts in his high school work. He learned how to cane seats for chairs and stools and has done a great deal of this work.

Rush's mechanical ability showed up when he constructed two scooter-like vehicles for himself so that he could get around without help. The second vehicle was the one he was using until he received his new motor scooter. It served Rush's purposes, but since the brake was at the rear of the machine, it was awkward for him to operate.

His new motor scooter can be operated entirely by hand through the steering wheel and brake at the front. It also has a large compartment for storage space.

Although Rush still does caning work, he now spends more time at his watch repairing business. In a small room at home fitted out as a repair shop, he conducts his business. About half of his work is done for people living an and around Hayesville. The other half comes from all over the state and even from other states. He has done watch repairing for patrons as far away as Florida and the state of Washington where his sister, Mrs. Harry Theiss, makes her home.

WORKED IN MANSFIELD

Rush has been repairing watches for the last 10 years. He took a year's training in Ashland, then spent a year at Shaw's Jewelers in Mansfield learning the business.

In recent years Rush has been handicapped by another disability. He has become slightly hard of hearing and now wears a hearing aid.

Although Rush can't participate in sports himself, he takes an active interest in them. This summer he often left his watch repairing work, which he says isn't work, but a hobby to him, to watch the baseball games over a neighbor's television set.

Besides the committee, six other Lion club members made the trip to Hayesville. They were Alex Turner, Jess Calland, George Condos, Earl Culp, Homer Dent, and Dr. John Dunham.

Business at the meeting will include the annual election of officers, final reports on the membership drive, and the completion of plans for the harvest carnival.

Police Hold 3 Suspects

Probe Beatings, Robbery Attempts

BULLETIN

Jesse Salas, 275 East First street, was sentenced to 10 days in jail in municipal court today after he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery brought by Walter McEvoy, 315 Auburn road.

★

Three Mansfield men were held in city jail for investigation today in connection with two altercations and an attempted robbery early Sunday.

Meanwhile, Courtney Hout, 76 East Fourth street, victim of one of the beatings, was confined to General hospital with a possible skull fracture, suffered when he struck his head on the curb outside of Mary's Lunch on East Fifth street.

Hospital attaches said Hout's condition was "fair." Hout's assailant is believed to be a 23-year-old Olivesburg road youth. The altercation occurred at 2 a. m. Sunday, police said.

An East First street man whose intended "victim" turned the tables on him is also being held. Police said the man attempted to rob Walter McEvoy, 315 Auburn street in front of McEvoy's home at 3 a. m. Sunday, but that McEvoy grabbed his assailant and held him prisoner. An accomplice in the robbery fled.

Also held was a 26-year-old Miller street man, held in connection with the robbing of Alfred Browling, 60, of 483 North Mulberry street. Browling reported the description of the man who beat him on North Main street about 4 a. m. Police picked up the suspect two hours later.

200 at Outing For Officials

TIRO — A crowd of more than 200, comprised of members of the Crawford County Trustees and Clerks association, their wives, and families attended the annual fish fry at the mess hall at the Crawford county fairgrounds last night.

Roy Eichhorn of Galion, president of the county organization, presided at the after-dinner meeting.

Joe Thomas of Hayesville, president of the state organization, spoke to the group.

Among those attending were Leo Scanlon, prosecuting attorney; Carl Baker of Tiro, candidate for state representative; Terry Drake of Galion, present state representative; Sheriff Ralph Schreck; Recorder Oliver Hartman; County Commissioners Walter Fargel and Lawrence Heinlen, and W. M. King, former mayor of Galion.

The Alpagora barber shop quartet of Galion furnished music before and after the dinner.

Rites Arranged For Mrs. Swigart

Funeral services for Mrs. Susanna Fleck Swigart, 74, who died at the Shryock Rest home last night after a two-year illness, will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home

The widow of Harmon Swigart, she was born in Washington township on Aug. 24, 1873 and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Surviving are one granddaughter, Mrs. D. L. Stimens, Mansfield, one great grandson, and several nieces and nephews.

Rev. O. W. Aughbaugh will officiate at the services. The body will be placed in the Mansfield mausoleum.

Dr. Green Attends Methodist Sessions

Dr. John D. Green, 373 Marion avenue, superintendent of the Mansfield district of the Methodist church, is among the 800 leaders of the church who are attending a national conference in Columbus today and tomorrow.

The new quadrennial plan of Methodism will be officially launched at the conference. Known as "The Advance for Christ and His Church," the four-year program will have two major objectives. They are a world-wide preaching and teaching mission and an over-all increase in giving to finance the church's missionary enterprises and overseas relief.

Stabbing Suspect Held Under Bond

WILLARD — Booker Thompson was held to the grand jury Saturday after he pleaded guilty before Mayor Roy A. Snook to a charge of cutting with intent to do bodily harm. He was held under $5,000 bond.

Thompson is accused of stabbing George Dawkins, 38, during a fight on Sept. 26 at the defendants cafe here.

Thieves Smash Windows

Cigarets, Beer, Wine In Loot

Burglars got more than $400 in cash and quantities of beer, wine and whisky in two break-ins in the city area over the week-end, police and Sheriff Frank Robinson reported today.

Joe Geiger jr., manager of the Geiger Distributing company, 326 Cedar street, reported to police Sunday that $400 in cash was taken from the files in his office. Investigation showed entrance had been made by breaking a window.

At 9:55 p. m. Sunday Sam Zivkov, manager of Sam's News, 859 Bowman street, told sheriff's deputies that $60 in merchandise was stolen at his establishment.

Zivkov, who said the burglary was the fourth in a year and a half at his place, reported he had returned to the store shortly before 10 p. m. and found the night light out, the wine cabinet unlocked and rest room door broken down.

ENTER THROUGH WINDOW

Deputies said the burglars had entered through the washroom window.

Zivkov said he had gone back to the store after $100 he had left there, but became suspicious when he noticed the evidences of forced entry. He said he went out the front door and saw two men running from the rear of his store.

Missing were 20 cartons of cigarets, $1.50 in pennies, six fifths of wine and whisky and a case of ale and beer, also candy and a mechanical pencil.

At 11:45 p. m. Ethel Kreger, Mansfield, R. D. 1, reported to deputies that her handbag containing $2 and personal papers was stolen from a friend's car while it was parked at Martin's Tavern on Springmill street.

Teacher Dies at 85

Miss Minnie Leuthner, 85, of 667 West Third street, a Madison township school teacher for 30 years, died at her home today following a lingering illness.

She was born Jan. 17, 1863, and spent most of her life on a farm two miles southeast of here. She moved to Mansfield three years ago. She was a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

She is survived by two sisters, Misses Mary and Lydia Leuthner, Mansfield, and five nieces and nephews.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home, where services will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m., with Rev. W. M. Taylor officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Denies Lewis Will Resign

CINCINNATI — (INS) — The United Mine Workers opened their first convention since 1946 today in Cincinnati amidst reports that John L. Lewis would resign as chief of the giant union.

The reports were denied by an official union source. The spokesman said Lewis and other international officers have been renominated without opposition and that none of them plans to resign.

Lewis will make his first address tomorrow morning when he will report on the progress of the union since its last convention, also held in Cincinnati.

192 Register Their Bicycles

Despite the inclement weather, 192 Bushnell and Newman school pupils purchased licenses for their bicycles at the police department Saturday, Paul Martin, identification officer, reported today.

This brings the total registration to 667, Martin reported. He said the Hedges school students will be registered Saturday, Oct. 9, along with students from West Fifth, Bowman, Newman and Bushnell who were unable to register at their appointed times.

The registration period is held from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. on Saturdays at the police department garage at the city building.

Board Acts On Time Petitions

The Richland county board of elections will meet today at 7:30 p. m. to consider petitions, calling for putting the daylight saving time issue on the November ballot.

Board Clerk Thomas R. Zeigler, said Saturday the petitions do not have enough valid signatures. He said that six of 19 petitions had been checked, and that 139 names were ruled out. Signatures on all the petitions totaled 1,258 and 1,157 valid signatures are required.

Tribe, Bosox Play Today For Pennant

By LEO H. PETERSEN

BOSTON —(UP)—Fenway park became the battlefield for the first pennant play off in American league history today with the Boston Red Sox facing the Cleveland Indians for the right to meet the Boston Braves in the 1948 World Series.

The betting was 7 to 5 in favor of the Red Sox, who will be playing in their own park—the location of which was determined by the flip of a coin in the Chicago headquarters of the American league a week ago last Friday when the Red Sox, Indians and New York Yankees were grouped in a battle for the pennant.

The Yankees, 1947 American league and world champions, were on the outside looking in. So were the Boston Braves, but they were only waiting to find out which club they were going to meet in the World Series opener at their own park, Wednesday.

THE PICTURE

It all added up to quite a baseball picture.

Here were the Red Sox, who were counted out of the pennant race only a few days ago, still in the running—a day after the official race for the pennant was over.

Meeting them were the Indians, a club which once again ran into Detroit Tiger troubue.

Only yesterday——up until 2:15 in the afternoon, that is—it looked like Cleveland. Lou Boudreau's team was a game ahead with only one game-to go.

The Tribe chieftain called on his Sunday best, Bobby Feller, to turn back the Tigers and win the pennant, but the fireball farm boy wasn't equal to the task. Instead, the Tigers turned on him at the same time the Red Sox were turning on the Yankees—It was the third inning in each game—so the playoff resulted.

Neither Boudreau nor Manager Joe McCarthy of the Red Sox was willing to name the starting pitchers for today's crucial game.

"I don't know who it will be. I'll have to dream about it," McCarthy said.

From Cleveland the downhearted Boudreau, who thought he had the pennant sewed up without a playoff, volunteered:

"Our pitching will be an element of surprise tomorrow."

That meant one of two things:

MAY BE SATCH

Most thought it would be Bob Lemon, the converted outfielder, who has won 20 games while losing 14 this season. But to the minority it meant that Boudreau might take a long chance and send his 52-year-old Negro hurler, Satchel Paige, to the mound. Paige, far beyond the baseball years in age, has won six games and lost only one this season.

As for McCarthy, he had two bets—both lefthanders. It appeared that it would be either Mel Parnell, with a 15 and eight record, or Mickey Harris, who has had a bad season with only seven victories against 10 defeats.

Harris and Paige have had a lot of rest—Parnell and Lemon have not. Parnell beat the Washington Senators Thursday while Lemon failed to hold 3 to 2 lead and was defeated by those pesky Tigers, Friday.

It was anybody's guess whom the contending managers would go with, but no matter their choice, there didn't seem to be much prospect of re-enacting the drama which enthralled some 31,000 persons at Fenway Park yesterday.

The Red Sox came to bat in the bottom of the third inning trailing the Yankees, 2 to 0, and on the left field scoreboard the posting was 0-0 in the Detroit at Cleveland game at the end of two frames.

As the loud speaker blared forth to the fans the four run Detroit attack at Cleveland in the top half of the third, the Red Sox went to work in the bottom half. They scored five runs to take the lead and added to it to coast in as Hal Newhouser hurled the Tigers to victory.

INDIANS CUT OFF A RUN—Eddie Mayo, Detroit third baseman is out at home as the Tigers attempted to work the squeeze play in fifth inning of Cleveland-Detroit game at Cleveland. Jim Hegan of the Indians waits with the ball after taking the throw from Pitcher Steve Gromek who fielded bunt by Tiger Hal Newhouser. Detroit won 7-1. (AP Wirephoto)

'I Told You We'd Be There' Marse Joe's Only Comment

By OSCAR FRALEY

BOSTON —(UP)— Marse Joe McCarthy, the Buffalo Irishman with the golden touch, rode the bench of destiny today as his Boston Red Sox tried to make it "three times and out."

For the most dramatic pennant race in the history of the lusty American league came to a "sudden death" finish this afternoon between the men of McCarthy and the Cleveland Indians.

And twice before this thickset man who makes a habit out of winning pennants has brought his club up to knock these same Indians out of the lead. This time it was all or nothing.

They squared away, the Red Sox and the Indians, in the first tie ever recorded in all the storied years the league has been playing. Now Marse Joe needed this one to make good on a promise when he took over the club this year: strengthened it with $400,000 worth of players and told them, at a spring meeting which still is a secret, how he was going to lead them home.

This is the day he makes good—or doesn't.

Deeds which will go down in the annals of baseball will decide the issue as the sun sinks behind the towering walls of Fenway Park. But behind those payoff pitches and money basehits, jockeying for a flag which at 61 may be his last, will be the man McCarthy.

You may like him; you might not. He isn't a man you get close to, for he shuts himself off from even his players with a barrier of almost arrogent aloofness. Here is no man to "father" his players, like Billy Southworth of the Braves. Nor does he work the old college try, like Lou Boudreau, his managerial rival today.

McCarthy expects his men to be major leaguers in every sense of the word, but while he isn't affable or over-friendly, you have to admit he is a man who gets a job done—usually well.

Never a major league player, he came out of the minors in the '20's to leal the Chicago Cubs to the National league pennant. Then, in 1931, he moved to the New York Yankees to found a dynasty which baseball may never surpass.

HAS WON EIGHT

Eight times he won pennants with the Yankees in 16 years, four of them running. Seven times out of eight he reached out from behind that wall of reserve to move the pawns which won world championships.

Then came 1946 and the era of Larry MacPhail, a loquacious man who had to be the guiding force. He and McCarthy collided head on, and before the season ended Marse Joe resigned.

For almost two years McCarthy was in retirement. Then millionaire Tom Yawkey, the Red Sox owner who always buys the best, pulled him back into the game. It was a challenge in more ways than one. Joe Cronin, whom he replaced, had a magnetic personality. You can't say that for Marse Joe, it made his job that much tougher.

Back in those years with the Yankees, they called McCarthy a "push button pilot," inferring anybody could win with such stars. Now, they said, he had another hand full of aces.

LEFT AT POST

But something went wrong. For when the race got away this year the Bosox were left at the post. On Memorial Day, one of the traditional baseball mileposts, they were seventh, 13 games back.

Then they started to roll.

By July 25 they boomed into first place—beating the Indians.

Again they collapsed, but once more went back into first place on Aug. 26—again by beating the Indians.

Then Boston fell back again last week as Cleveland sprinted two games ahead. So the men of McCarthy came to the end of the trail yesterday with their backs against the wall, and battled their way to a flat-footed tie with the Indians.

"I told you we'd be there," was Marse Joe's quiet comment.

Don't Care Who We Play —Says Billy

BOSTON—(UP)—Manager Billy Southworth, openly irked but secretly pleased that his Braves are world series underdogs, spoke out sharply today that "we're not conceding anything to anybody."

"We don't even know who we're going to play next Wednesday and we don't care," said the round faced little man as his Braves rode home to a heroes' welcome at Back Bay station. They wound up the season yesterday by beating the Giants at New York, 11 to 1.

"If it's the Indians or the Red Sox, they'll still say that we don't have the equipment to beat either club. Well, don't forget that we earned the opportunity to meet the American league club and we are definitely going to make the most of it."

Southworth said that all season long when the going was toughest in the National league race "We beat the clubs who were supposed to be better than we were."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

PITCHING—Hal Newhouser, Tigers—Stopped Cleveland's bid for its first American League pennant since 1920 by pitching Detroit to a 7-1 five hit win over the Indians, his 21st victory of the season.

Slingin' Sam Pitches Team To Loop Lead

(By International News Service)

Washington emerged today as the first undisputed leader in the year's National Football league race.

The Redskins took a clear hold on first place in the loop's eastern division yesterday by upsetting the New York Giants, 41 to 10.

Slingin' Sam Baugh of the 'Skins completed 16 of 24 passes for 259 yards and two touchdowns before 32,593 at Washington.

The Los Angeles Rams put on a thrilling exhibition in coming from behind to score four touchdowns and tie the Philadelphia Eagles, 28 to 28, before 36,884 at Los Angeles.

WATERFIELD HOT

Bob Waterfield of the Rams tossed touchdown passes like clockwork in this rally. His last pass, to Jack Zilly, came with only 28 seconds of play remaining.

Green Bay rebounded from a trouncing by the Chicago Bears to smother Detroit, 33 to 21, before 24,206 at Green Bay.

Pittsburgh's Steelers staged a second half rally to down the hapless Boston Yanks, 24 to 14, before 26,216 at Pittsburgh. It was Pittsburgh's first win of the year and the Yanks third league setback.

In the rival all-America conference, Buffalo's Bills drubbed Brooklyn 31 to 21 before 18,000 on their own gridiron. George Ratterman tossed two touchdown passes for the winners.

Clevelanders Still Have Faith In Tribe

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Confident Clevelanders picked up their World Series tickets today.

Their in-and-out Indians were battling Boston in the American league's first pennant playoff, but no one along the Lake front appeared too perturbed about the outcome.

The two teams tied yesterday for the flag. The Indians, bidding for their first since 1920, bowed to Hal Newhouser and the Detroit Tigers 7-1. Boston, two games back only three days ago, zoomed into the deadlock with a resounding 10-5 conquest of the New York Yankees.

MEET BRAVES

Winner of the post-season playoff meets Bill Southworth's Boston Braves in the world series starting Wednesday. Around here the fans say the only possible winner is the Tribe.

And if the fans are wrong it will be a costily affair, for tickets have been printed and sold for the big series, every hotel room in town is reserved for next weekend, and the bars are looking for a business boom.

The Indians needed a victory for themselves, or a loss for Boston, in yesterday's schedule-closer to annex the pennant. They didn't get either. Cleveland was set for a big celebration. The whistles didn't blow, but the Indians did.

Newhouser, tabbed by Indian Manager Lou Boudreau as the "best lefthander in the business," limited the Tribe to five hits. He didn't allow a man past second base until two were out in the ninth, when the Tribe got its only tally.

BLAST FELLER

The Tigers blasted Rapid Robert Feller off the hill with a four-run barrage in the third, and scored two more in the fourth and one in the ninth.

After the fourth frame the Indians paid more attention to the scoreboard than they did to the Tigers. They were hoping the Yanks would give it back to the Indians by beating Boston.

Feller's departure was the signal for a flurry in the Indians' bullpen. Five pitchers warmed up—which was better than the crowd of 74,181 could do in the sub-60 temperature. All five—Sam Zoldak, Ed Klieman, Steve Gromek, Mike Garcia and Ernie Groth—got into the contest in that order.

After the game it looked like a "wake in the wigwam," the wigwam being the Tribe's refreshment-flooded press headquarters. Boudreau, banning the writers from the dressing room, came to the wigwam to tell the scribes he hadn't decided on today's mound choice.

WON'T SAY

He said it would be Feller (19-15), Gene Bearden (19-7) or Bob Lemon (20-14), but that he'd have no definite announcement until "he steps on the rubber."

"We're not downhearted over losing," Boudreau said. "We are going over to Boston to beat the Red Sox for the pennant. This play-off just gets us there a day early for the world series."

President Bill Veeck had a case of champagne on hand for the sports writers and a flock of fireworks for the fans in case the Indians grabbed the gonfalon. But not a cork popped or bomb exploded.

The day had been designated as "Bill Veeck Day" by Mayor Thomas J. Burke, but all the sport-shirted, coatless prexy got out of it was a chill from the cold winds blowing off Lake Erie.

We're Going A Day Early —Boudreau

CLEVELAND —(AP)— "There is no Hal Newhouser in Boston, and we're going there just a day early for the World Series."

That statement from Manager Lou Boudreau today as the Indians were en route to Boston for the first play-off of a championship tie in the history of the American league, summed up the feeling of the entire club.

"Newhouser beat us almost single-handedly yesterday," Boudreau said. "We could have batted against him for two days and still lost the game. He's one of the greatest pitchers of them all."

Boudreau refused to be downhearted about the Detroit loss and he maintained the Indians still were "up" for today's game with the Sox.

"There's too much experience in our infield to let a little thing like this stop us," he said.

"No one is let down too much. We're still tied for the championship and Boston can only win it by beating us. And like I said before, there is no Hal Newhouser in Boston."

Pugh's 609 Paces Sons of Herman Bowling League

A 609 series accomplished by a bit of consistent bowling was good enough to rate L. Pugh as high man on the totem poll last night at Colony.

Pugh fired games of 214, 202 and 193 to become the only man hitting the honor roll for the night. He easily led the Sons of Herman league in which he was rolling.

Runnerup in the loop was Jake Gaubatz, who had 220-197-174—591. Other good scores were Ike DeTurk, 587, and Jake Streitmater, 556.

Mary McIntire, with a 455, led the Daughters of Herman. She was followed by Eva Morrison, 412.

Honors in Saturday's Mansfield Tire Owl league went to Tony Holzmuller with a 165-180-200 score. J. Leathers was runnerup with 533.

Ted Lyons Succeeded By Unknown

CHICAGO — (AP) — Ted Lyons has quit the last-place Chicago White Sox.

His resignation as manager ends a 25-year active career with the club, one of the longest in Major league history.

Charles Comiskey, 22-year-old heir of the baseball dynasty, last night announced the appointment of Jack Onslow as Lyon's successor. The 39-year-old Onslow moves up from the Sox Memphis farm club after guiding the Chicks to second place in the Southern Association this season.

TED LYONS

REFUSES POST

Young Comiskey, only grandson of Charles A. Comiskey, one of the national sport's pioneers, said Lyons had refused a position in the White Sox farm system.

Lyons, who came to the Sox fresh from Baylor campus in 1923 and became one of the league's top pitchers, had no comment.

PORTLAND, Ore. —(AP)— Portland's big open golf tournament went into extra holes today as triple title holder Ben Hogan hooked up in a single round playoff with tall Fred Haas jr., of New Orleans and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C.

Football Races Are Taking Shape

By LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK — (NS) — Possible gridiron greats of 1948 began shaping up today in the wake of upsets which dotted college football cards the past two Saturdays.

In the midwest, it is Northwestern, Michigan, Notre Dame and Minnesota. Part of this muddle will be cleared up Saturday when Northwestern entertains Minnesota.

In the far west, California rules the roost.

In the southwest, Southern Methodist is several jumps ahead of Arkansas.

In the south, there are North Carolina, Georgia Tech, Mississippi and Mississippi State.

In the east, the leaders are Army, Penn, Penn State and Harvard. Some of the cream of Army's clash with Illinois next Saturday was removed when the Illini were upset by Wisconsin, 27 to 16.

Two other upsetters, Harvard and Cornell, will clash head-on.

In other upsets, Northwestern trounced Purdue, 21 to 0. Columbia, renewing gridiron relations with Harvard after 47 years, was upended, 33 to 24.

Louisiana State tripped up a powerful Rice eleven, 26 to 13. Mississippi topped Kentucky, 20 to 7. Wake Forest toppled William and Mary, 21 to 12. Arkansas mauled T. C. U., 27 to 14, with Smackover Scott scoring three touchdowns.

Cornell surprised Navy, 13 to 7, and underdog Brown nosed out Princeton, 23 to 20.

Yale had to go all out to shade little Connecticut, 7 to 0. Favored Georgia Tech had a hard time beating Tulane, 13 to 7. North Carolina was much better than Georgia, but won by only 21-14.

Three ties — Tennessee 7, Duke 7; Mississippi State 7, Baylor 7, and Vanderbilt 14, Alabama 14 — really represented minor upsets; because Duke, Mississippi State and Alabama had been favored to win.

West coast form stood up as Washington State beat Stanford, 14 to 7, California trounced St. Mary's, 20 to 0, and Oregon State battled Washington to a 14-to-14 tie. Nevada beat the University of San Francisco, 20 to 7.

Indiana took the undisputed lead in the Western conference by defeating Iowa, 7 to 0. Minnesota was not particularly impressive in beating Nabraska, 39 to 13.

In top intersectional games Michigan, the Rose Bowl champion, blanked Oregon, 14 to 0, and Ohio State trounced Southern California, 20 to 0.

U. S. Commercial Pilots Fly Asiatic Airlift to Mukden

Planes Aid In Defense Of Capital

City Surrounded By Chinese Reds

MUKDEN —(INS)— American commercial pilots are today flying critically needed supplies over Chinese communist lines to bolster the Nationalist defense of this blockaded and encircled Manchurian metropolis in an operation described as the Asiatic counterpart of the Berlin airlift.

Approximately 50 to 60 C-46 flights carrying six ton cargoes are made daily by American pilots of three Chinese licensed commercial airlines to bring flour and other essential commodities into the isolated Mukden area.

Outgoing planes transport daily an average of 2,000 refugees from the city whose 950,000 population is on the brink of starvation.

Government troops hold a perimeter which radiates out from Mukden to an average depth of about fifty miles. Communist ground fire which has so far been ineffective is occasionally directed at the transports that land on the Wenho airfield in the city's southern suburbs.

A foreign consular official still remaining in Mukden drew the comparison between the Berlin and Mukden air shuttles. He pointed out that the important difference lies in the inability of the government airlift to supply Mukden with sufficient food to provide the civilian population with a subsistence diet.

Part of the flour flown in is provided under the American ECA program to feed one meal a day to 70,000 essential workers. The balance of the population attempts to subsist principally on dried soya bean cake, which previously had been used as fertilizer or low grate cattle fodder.

Most of the supplies airlifted into the city are earmarked for the use of the garrison which is also supplied on a small scale by Chinese air force transports.

General Wei Li-Huang, who commands an estimated 150,000 Nationalist troops defending the Mukden "island," believes that he can hold out as long as the airlift continues.

American pilots shuttle their planes mainly between Chinchow and Mukden. Flights are made less frequently from Peiping, Tientsin and Tsingtao.

Chinchow is 125 airline miles southeast of Mukden. Supplies are pumped into Chinchow for the Mukden airlift by rail from the seaport of Hulatao. Transports shuttling between Chinchow and Mukden make the flight in one hour, turn around in about twenty minutes and attempt to make five trips a day.

Piles Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Decree Gives Ohio Dancer Full Pardon In Death Case

HAVANA—(U.P.)—A presidential pardon published Saturday in the official gazette freed Patricia (Satira) Schmidt and cleared her of all remaining liabilities in the shooting of her lover John Lester Mee, aboard the yacht he named for her.

The decree was signed by President Ramon Grau San Martin. It set aside the remaining 14 years of her 15-year sentence for killing Mee, a Chicago lawyer. It also waived the court costs, parole requirements, and a $5,000 indemnity the night club dancer had been ordered to pay Mee's family.

In effect, Miss Schmidt became a free woman. The decree was issued under wartime emergency powers and thus was exempt from a judicial requirement of a 72-hour lapse between publication and release of the prisoner.

A friend, Louise Smith, said, however, that Miss Schmidt would stay at Guanabacoa prison for a time, at least until next Wednesday so as not to embarrass friendly prison administrative personnel or leave herself open to criticism.

Miss Smith said that on leaving Guanabacoa, the dancer planned to drive direct to the airport and take the first available plane to the United States.

Coroner's Verdict Says Dog Shot, Killed Geauga Countian

CHARDON—(INS)—A dog shot and killed a man in Geauga county.

County Coroner Philiy P. Pease returned the unusual verdict in the death of William Barns of Cleveland.

Barns hired a boat, took his gun and dog along, and as he alighted from the boat in the Cuyahoga river in nearby Troy township, the gun discharged.

The coroner said he could not see otherwise than that the dog brushed against the gun trigger, discharging the gun.

Ohio C. of C. Schedules '48 Meeting This Month

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A score of speakers were scheduled today to focus a fast-moving spotlight on the international situation and other issues confronting the nation at the 55th annual meeting of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

The annual session will be held this year in Cincinnati on Oct. 21 and 22. Chamber President C. I. Weaver expects more than one thousand business leaders of the state to attend.

"Regardless of election results next month," said Weaver, "a critical year of readjustment of business and governmental policies is in prospect. Businessmen will need to be thoroughly informed on these matters if they are expected to help solve the problems facing the nation."

Speakers scheduled for the sessions include U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft; Dr. Felix Morley, Washington editor, educator and radio commentator; Eugene C. Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis Star and Indianapolis News; Paul D. Bagwell, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Almon E. Roth, chairman of the board of the San Francisco Employers council.

New York Times Supports Dewey

NEW YORK — (AP) — The New York Times has announced its support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for president. The Times opposed Dewey in the 1944 presidential campaign against Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In an editorial the newepaper said its support of Dewey this year was due principally to a "marked change" in the New York governor's "understanding and authority" in the field of international relations.

LEGAL NOTICE

Atha H. Shriver and Inez A. Alexie, plaintiffs, vs. Earl E. Barkedull, Administrator of the Estate of William Rhine, deceased et al., Defendants, in Common Pleas Court, Richland County, Ohio.

The unknown heirs of Rosa Rhine, deceased and the unknown heirs of William Rhine, deceased, whose names and places of residence are unknown and cannot be ascertained, will take notice that on the 25th day of September, 1948, the plaintiffs, Atha H. Shriver and Inez A. Alexie filed their petition against them in the Court of Common Pleas of Richland County, Ohio, the same being cause No. 30771 in said court, praying for the quieting of the title and possession of said plaintiffs in certain real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

Situated in the City of Shelby, in the County of Richland, and in the State of Ohio, and known and described as being a part of Out-lot Number Fifty-Five (55) in the regular series of consecutive numbers of Out-lots in said City of Shelby, and bounded by commencing at a point on the west line of North Gamble Street, in said City of Shelby, which point is 175 south of the northeast corner of said Out-lot 55; thence south on the west line of North Gamble Street 430.5 feet; thence west 300 feet; thence south 250.5 feet; thence west 254 feet; thence north 699 feet, thence east 495 feet to the place of beginning. Containing seven (7) acres more or less.

The prayer of said petition is for the quieting of the title and possession of the plaintiffs to the above described real estate, and that the defendants be made parties to this action and required to answer setting any claim that they may have to the above real estate or be forever barred.

Said defendants are required to answer said petition on or before the 27th day of November, 1948 or judgment will be taken against them.

Ramadier to Submit Plan

PARIS —(AP)— French Defense Minister Paul Ramadier is expected to submit to the French cabinet early this week plans for an international general staff of the Western European union.

The international staff will have the task of organizing and intergrating the defense of Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It is to be headed by a permanent chairman, or chief of staff, with land, air and naval components under joint command.

The British cabinet has approved Field Marshal Lord Montgomery of Britain as the chief of staff. However, no five-nation announcement has been made.

French officials said Ramadier could not completely commit France to the plans until they had been approved by the government. They added that no announcement on the chief of staff and his three commanders can be made until this approval is given.

OPEN PIN REMOVED

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Huron Road hospital reported today that physicians there had removed an open safety pin from the throat of a two-month-old girl of Willoughby township. The girl is Susan, a foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawrence.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, October 5

It is probable that a recent stretch of excitement, elation, dynamic and highly stimulated emotions, may continue the high pressure, with emotions and impulses still "in the saddle." With the prior obscure and uncertain state of mind, it may be desirable to keep firm leash on the feelings and desires where vital issues are at stake. If major objectives or decisions come up for consideration it would be advisable to work on a basis of reason and composure, rather than obstinate determination.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, should resolve to take their affairs in hand on a practical and commonsense basis minus emotions and overweening desires, which may have power to keep up high pressure and tension, with consequent strife, rancour and bad feelings. Revenge, obstinacy, impetuosity, dissipate forces that could be applied to constructive and harmonious plans. Substitute cool thinking and happy emotions for destructive drives and impulses.

A child born on this day, may have wayward and impetuous urges, which, properly disciplined, might be turned to constructive ideas, enterprise and worth-while attainments.

Man Commits Suicide By Plunge In Furnace

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. —(AP)—A 40-year-old man committed suicide Saturday by throwing himself into the 1800-degree fahrenheit heat of a gas-making furnace, police said.

The man, Edward S. Graham, an employe of the Long Island Lighting company for 20 years, died when he plunged into the flaming top of a furnace he was tending at the company's plant here, police said.

Navy to Fly Combat Planes to Hawaii

PEARL HARBOR —(AP)— The Navy plans to fly 12 short-range combat planes from California to Hawaii next Tuesday, using two aircraft carriers as refueling bases at 800-mile intervals.

The operation, from Moffett field, near San Francisco, to Barbers Point, on Oahu, will be the first long-range overwater ferrying flight of its sort.

Five Face Death

SOFIA, Bulgaria — (AP) — The Bulgarian government press department said last night that five Bulgarian men had been sentenced to death as spies. Two others were given life sentences.

It is estimated that U. S. saw timber is now being used at a rate one and a half times its rate of growth.

Milton M. Davis and Milton M. Davis, Trustee, and the unknown heirs and devisees of Milton M. Davis, deceased, whose residences are unknown, will take notice that on the 17th day of September, 1948, Agnes I. Fox, et al., filed their petition in the Common Pleas Court of Richland County, Ohio, in Case No. 30749 against the above-named parties praying that their title be quieted to Lots No. 259, 260, 261 and 262 in Lincoln Heights Allotment, Madison Township, Richland County, Ohio. Said parties are required to answer on or before the 20th day of November, 1948, or the prayer of the petition will be granted.

Sick Veteran Granted Pardon

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Fred Caruso, 23, a World War II veteran now critically ill in Chicago of a brain tumor, has been pardoned of a larceny sentence by Gov. Green.

The governor said he acted to aid the veteran's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Caruso of Ashtabula, O., in their fight to clear his war record.

Because of his one-to-three-year sentence following conviction on larceny charges at Peoria in 1946, young Caruso subsequently was discharged from the army without honor. Earlier, he had served in Europe with the 30th Infantry division, earning five battle stars.

CIO Faces Showdown

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The CIO is heading toward an almost certain showdown between its left and right wing factions after the presidential elections.

Beset by internal friction over charges that some of its union leaders have communist leanings, the CIO will meet in convention in Portland, Ore., Nov. 22.

The potential start of a breach is scheduled for Oct. 14, when a three-man CIO committee opens an inquiry into the conduct of the leadership of the greater New York City CIO council.

The investigation was demanded by anti-communist leaders, including Joseph Curran of the National Maritime union and Michael Quill of Transport Workers. Both of them once worked in their own unions with factions accused of communist sympathy.

The committee will report its findings to the CIO executive board at Portland Nov. 17. Any disciplinary action which might be taken by the board or by CIO President Philip Murray as a result of that report more than likely would be appealed to the convention.

River Power Move Begun

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Backed up by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, a New York state official today asks the federal power commission for authority to build a $463,374,000 international power project on the St Lawrence river.

Gen. Francis B. Wilby, chairman of the New York state power authority, is scheduled to be one of the first witnesses before the commission on the controversial question of the joint Canadian-New York project.

The New York state power authority and the Ontario hydroelectric power commission want to split the cost and the 12,600,000,000 kilowatts-a-year of the gigantic undertaking.

Are you in a financial rut and tired of constant struggling to keep your head above the high cost of living. If so, I would like to talk to you. A National company with local offices must, because of expansion, interview and enroll 2 men, in their sales training course. Upon the completion of which permanent sales jobs, with good earnings, are assured. Car essential. Call Mr. Kellog, Southern Hotel, after 1 p. m., Monday, Oct. 4, 1948.

Priced For Quick Sale
Six room modern home with living room, dining room, kitchen, 3 bedrooms and bath up. Hardwood floors, fireplace in living room. Full basement, hot air furnace. Located on Blanche street between Main and Lexington.
L. H. RAIN, Realtor
1152-6 25½ East Third 1924-7

Immediate Possession

A good house on Reba Ave. Six rooms, newly decorated. Large lot. Good garage with workshop space. New hardwood floors downstairs. Modern. Priced at $9000.

Double
Six rooms to a side. Located on W. Fifth near Sycamore. The rooms are all quite large, full basement and floored attic with plenty of light on each side. House needs some attention such as paint and spouting, but is sound basically and well worth the price of $11,000. Possession of one side after October 5th.

Requests Military Aid For Chinese

Subcommittee Issues Report

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A House foreign affairs subcommittee today again urged that military aid be supplied to China to help stem the growing force of communism.

Failure to do so, the subcommittee said, will mean that the United States and other democracies have abandoned China to the communists. The subcommittee said the communists have been using China as a proving ground for techniques to conquer 1,500,000,000 of the world's backward peoples.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R.-Ohio) issued a report analyzing communist tactics and strategy in China.

"China is, for the forces of democracy and peace as well as for world communism, a proving ground where the way forward for one and a half billions of people must be developed and tested," the report said. "There are technological and industrial problems to solve, economic problems, social problems, the problem of internal political order and the problem of external political security, and finally the problem of how to become a genuine democracy.

If the problem of how to make China a modern democracy is to be solved at all, it can be solved by China and the United States working together. The fate of China will go far to settle the fate of all southern and eastern Asia, and of the world."

It said that Chinese communism was "regular communism" and not just an agrarian movement remote from Moscow.

Chinese communists, the report said, now number nearly 2,000,000 and exert control over a population as great as that of the United States.

Careful! This Is 'Be Kind To Your Secretary' Week

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — My favorite week, of course, is "Don't-Take - Any - Guff - From - the - Boss Week." I observe it twice a year. On my vacation and when the boss is away.

Well, this happens to be "Be-Kind - to - Your-Secretary Week," which is my second favorite on account of I don't have a secretary.

United Airlines was behind this one. It came up with a fascinating little memo called "dictation technique." Aimed at the boss—not the gal with the lined memo pad.

So, bosses, if you are tobacco chewers who score a lot of near-misses; or if you are pixilators or mumblers—well, pull up a chair. This one comes straight from your secretary. Your best friend.

The United Airlines cuties have written a set of rules. Maybe the press agent had something to do with it, I don't know. Anyhow, here they are, bosses.

First of all, before you call the girl in for dictation, be sure that "everything is ready." In other words, know what you are going to say and how you are going to say it. There is nothing the girls hate more than a coin-juggler or a pencil-thumper when they are in a hurry to get out for a luncheon date. Start right out, bosses, like you knew what you are going to say.

Make the girl comfortable. Have a chair ready for her and maybe even get up like a nice little man and hold it while she sits down.

Close the door. There's nothing worse than a lot of interruptions. If the phone rings let it ring. Or tell the operator not to disturb you. It'll make somebody else mad, but not your secretary.

Maybe your secretary can't spell any better than you can, but she thinks you are smart enough to know all the answers. Don't let her down.

The secs, love 'em, suggest that bosses refrain from whispering, shouting, or shifting speeds in dictating. Too hard to follow in shorthand. Don't just trail off in the middle of a thought. And don't mumble.

Also, don't cuss. Not on paper, anyhow.

Another thing, bosses. If you are going to keep the girl working after hours, let her know in advance. Maybe she's got a date.

And give her the proper instructions—right off the bat. If you want six carbons, say so at the beginning—not after she brings five copies in.

How would you like to be bawled out?

Secretaries, I love 'em all.

And just as much, I love what's coming up next week—"Let's-All-Eat-a-Prune Week."

Mansfielder Helps Plan Homecoming

Miss Helen McClure, 87 Stewart avenue, has been appointed co-chairman of the Muskingum college homecoming celebration.

MISS HELEN McCLURE

it has been announced by H. Dwight Balentine, alumni secretary of the school at New Concord, O.

Miss McClure, a senior, is president of the Wawyin Social club and of the Association for Childhood Education. She is secretary of Sigma Tau Delta and a member of the program committee of the YWCA.

Co-chairman with Miss McClure is Harry Dean, senior, of Pittsburgh. Both appointees had experience working on last year's homecoming committee.

Muskingum's homecoming celebration will take place Saturday, Oct. 23, and will be highlighted by a football game with Wooster college at McConagha stadium.

Marian Wasn't Hurt But Oh, Her Pigtail!

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. —(AP)— Marian Douglas, 4, was thrown from her frisky pony, Pansy, three times during a local horse show. The last time she lay ominously still. When attendants rushed up, Marian explained why:

"Pansy is standing on my pigtail."

RELIEF AT LAST For Your COUGH

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

NEW RELIEF! WHEN CHILD FEELS

Choked Up WITH A COLD

Mother, you know what wonderful relief you get when you rub on warming Vicks VapoRub!

Now . . . if a cold chokes-up your youngster and makes breathing difficult . . . here's a special way to use VapoRub for grand relief, too!

. . . It's VapoRub Steam!

Put a good spoonful of Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water or vaporizer. Then . . . let your child breathe in the soothing VapoRub Steam. Medicated vapors penetrate direct to cold-congested upper bronchial tubes, bring relief with every breath!

For continued relief while child sleeps, rub throat, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub. It keeps working for hours to relieve distress. Try it!

'Armed Forces Talk' Gives Warning

Russians Desire World Rule, Army Told

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Army told its troops today that Russia is seeking control of Germany and eventually of all Europe from which she would be in a position to "challenge the world."

In an "armed forces talk" distributed to troops, the Army said the Soviet Union's "obstructionist economic policy" in Germany is "only too evident."

"The longer Germany can be kept in economic doldrums," the Army said, "the greater the likelihood of starvation, disorder and disease.

"The western allies, if faced with these misfortunes in their zones, might get tired of struggling. Public opinion in the United States might resent the continued outlay of money for the support of western Germany. We might get out of the country — whereupon the Red army might well get in for keeps.

"Given control of all of Germany, the Soviet Union might soon have all of Europe."

With Europe in her grasp, the Soviet Union would have large coal mines and steel mills, the Army said.

"With possession of Germany's coal and steel production — not to mention the incalculable industrial know-how of the Germans — the Soviet Union, already a strong industrial power in its own right, would be in a position to challenge the world."

The armed forces talk reviewed the developments leading up to the Berlin crisis. Now Russia is working desperately, the Army said, to hinder European economic recovery.

Russia fears, the Army said, that the Marshall plan will wipe out all the gains the communists have made in Europe since the end of the war.

"The men in the Kremlin have seen the handwriting on the wall," the Army said. "They are trying somehow to win control of all of Germany before the plan can succeed."

Supreme Court Faces Major Issues as New Term Begins

400 Cases Await Action By Justices

Brief Opening Ceremony Held

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The Supreme court reassembles today for a new term that may bring important decisions on the communist issue and the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Promptly at noon, the nine justices clad in their black silk robes ascended the bench to open the court's 159th year. Formalities of the opening session are brief.

At its end, the justices recess until next Monday when the court gets down to the business of hearing arguments and deciding cases. During the week, however, the justices will meet daily in private conference to look over the 400-odd cases that have piled up during the summer recess.

Among them is an appeal by an admitted communist, Gerhart Eisler, who was convicted of contempt of Congress He was sentenced to one year in jail and fined $1,000. Eisler refused even to take an oath before the House unAmerican Activities committee Heretofore, the court has declined to interfere with prosecutions in such cases.

But before the term is over, the court probably will rule on the right of witnesses, who take the oath, to claim protection of the Bill of Rights in refusing to say whether they are communists.

The court may also decide during this term a vital question in the prosecution of known communists· does the communist party advocate the violent overthrow of the government?

That question is the key issue in the prosecution of 12 communists recently indicted by a grand jury in New York. Even if they are convicted, their cases are not likely to reach the court this term. But the same problem may come up in some alien deportation cases which are expected to reach the high bench before the year is out.

Besides the communist issue, the court is slated to rule on some important phases of the Taft-Hartley law. The labor law's non-communist affidavit requirement and its ban on political expenditures by labor unions are expected to come in for a showdown. Lower courts have upheld both sections.

A test case is anticipated on the legality of maritime union "hiring halls." The National Labor Relations Board has held that they are illegal under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Steel Supply Still Short

CLEVELAND —(INS)—Magazine Steel reported today that growing pressure in the steel market is causing buyers to fight "tooth and nail for every pound."

Steel said the pressures of demand show absolutely no sign of easing, despite reports of some slight slackening in general business. The magazine added:

"However, in the main, large buyers' supplies appear ample for current operations, but since their inventories are small and unbalanced, the practice of 'robbing Peter to pay Paul' to maintain schedules has become a normal routine."

The National metalworking authority pointed out that substantial quantities of steel are flowing out of the country, thus contributing to the general stringency in the United States.

Steel declared that while prices on raw materials required by the steel industry generally are strong with advances in some lines steel scrap is showing a somewhat easier tone at some consuming points

Steelmaking operations held steady last week at 96 per cent of capacity. Production rose 1 point to 84 per cent in New England,and .5 to 97 in Chicago. 95 in Pittsburgh and 97 5 in Cleveland Production fell 4 to 101 in Detroit with three furances down for repairs.

Sharon to Vote On Annexation

A proposed annexation of part of Sharon township to Shelby will be decided by a referendum of the Sharon township electorates Nov 2.

Arrest Makes Family Untouchable

Mother Takes Bold Step to Save Son

Editor's Note: Torn by grief over the loss of her husband, Demyan, in the great purge, Mrs. Kasenkina carries on bravely. However, a new fear grips her heart as the Young Communists begin the political corruption of her son, Oleg. She decides to take a bold step.

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
(Edited by Isaac Don Levine)

From the moment my husband Demyan was arrested, people began to shy away from me. To be seen with a member of the family of an "enemy of the people" . . . and that was the badge of dishonor conferred upon every victim of the purge . . . meant to expose oneself to suspicion, surveillance and jeopardy. I became an untouchable to my colleagues and neighbors, except to those women whose husbands or sons had also been seized.

After my three weeks of futile efforts to get to Demyan in the hope of saving him, when I had become convinced that he was gone for good, I faced the trying choice which millions of other Russian wives and mothers had to make: To continue to cry for justice on the theory that Demyan had not been "liquidated," or to bury the great pain within me, to keep silent about the fate of my husband for the sake of at least saving the future of my only son, Oleg.

My parents even reproached me for not going to Moscow to seek a review of the case of Demyan. But I knew others who had done so, knocking at the doors of the new bureaucrats, and getting nothing but rebuffs and sneers from the masters of the purge. And I felt that Demyan himself would have wanted me to devote the remainder of my life to our boy, knowing full well that safety for Oleg lay in expunging as quickly as possible the memory of his "counter-revolutionary" father.

As teachers we knew only too well the almost insuperable difficulties in securing an education and making a career which were put in the path of a lad whose father bore the mark of a citizen disloyal to the Soviet regime.

Many wives whose husbands had been rounded up in the purge and shipped off to distant labor camps did receive cards from somewhere along the route telling of the prisoners' destination. It was a common occurrence to pick up such cards or letters dropped along railroad tracks from prison trains, with pleas to mail them. I never received any kind of a message from Demyan, and this confirmed me in my belief that he had been put to death.

NEW DANGER THREATENS

Moreover, upon my return from Artemovsk, where I besieged the local jail, his last known abode, a new kind of terror stared me in the face: the Komsomol had, during my absence, reached out for Oleg. The NKVD had established a special branch in the Komsomol —the Young Communist league — for the political seduction or conversion of the adolescent children of purged parents. One purpose was to use the youngsters as spies for ferreting out information about how a family reacted to the purging of a father or brother. The authorities wanted to know, "Are they criticizing the Soviet government in so-and-so's home?" After all, it was the same Komsomol which had trained children to denounce their parents as counter-revolutionaries.

My boy was not at home the night I returned from Artemovsk I learned that he had been lured to the Komsomol club where the Young Communists would take him in hand. This operation was called: pere-vospitat — to remake Late that night Oleg, who had never liked alcohol, was brought home by some Komsomols in an intoxicated state, and I found him in a stupor on our veranda.

If the boy, who was only sixteen, had that evening uttered some criticism against the government for what it had done to his innocent father, he would have been doomed himself. That happened to many lads whose tongues were loosened. They were sent off to reformatories, which was really the first stage to a convict labor battalion, and then to a concentration camp.

Oleg was a talented musician. I had given him my violin, which I enjoyed playing, and the Komsomol inner set flattered him and gave him opportunities to perform in the clubhouse. Also, he was good at drawing. He was invited to design posters, and this appealed to him My anxiety was growing daily. We had not raised our son to be a communist.

One day the director of his school called me to report that Oleg was absent that day. I went to look for the boy, and found him in the Komsomol headquarters

"Olya, why aren't you in school?" I asked.

"Mamochka, pardon me" he answered, "they gave me an assignment, and I had to fulfill it."

WANTS TO SAVE BOY

I decided then and there that to save my boy I would have to leave town with him for good. His education was being neglected and perverted To add salt to my wounds, Oleg returned one evening all in tears. The young scoundrels had stolen the violin I had given him, and which he cherished. And my loneliness made my heavy burden even heavier.

The last drop in my cup was the way my mother was going to pieces over the plight of her two daughters whose husbands had been snatched away. She had been especially attached to my Demyanchik She became sick and began to brood. Often, sitting at the window, she would suddenly call out:

"Look, look, here comes Demyan. Now he's peering into the window."

I decided that the province of Moscow would be the most desirable district for us to settle in. I then had relatives in Moscow itself. Furthermore, a faint hope stirred within me that being near the capital I might somehow learn something about the fate of Demyan.

But one does not move in the Soviet Union from one place to another at will. One must have a permit or an employment assignment from the authorities. And I knew that I could never get a transfer from the commissariat of education of the Ukraine to that of Great Russia.

I resolved upon a bold stratagem. Instead of following the prescribed routine, I wrote direct to the Moscow "Oblono," the department of education for the province of Moscow, outlining my qualifications, listing my references, and stating that the reason for my application was my desire to raise my boy in an atmosphere of Russian culture, away from the Ukraine. We did not regard ourselves as Ukrainians.

My letter struck a responsive chord in the heart of a certain Mikhailov, whom I did not then know, who was in charge of all the provincial schools. It happened that he was looking for an experienced natural science instructor to fill a vacancy. He invited me to come to Moscow for an interview, and to bring all my papers and documents along.

I was worried about one thing: would I get the appointment if I disclosed that my husband had been purged?

Bond Issue Will Double Edison Tax

Proposal Seeks 20 Mills More

MT. GILEAD—Members of the Morrow county election board have approved petitions to place two bond issues on the Nov. 2 ballot. One of the issues would nearly double the tax rate at Edison.

One bond issue is for the construction of a water system in the village of Mt. Gilead.

The Edison bond issue for $65,000 is for the purpose of paying the assessable portion of the cost of constructing water lines and a distribution system. The bonds would run for 20 years and the estimated average additional tax rate outside of the 10 mill limitation as certified by the county auditor would be 20 mills for each one dollar of valuation or $2 for each $100 of valuation.

Present tax rate in the Edison district is slightly above 21 mills and passage of the bond issue would raise the tax rate to over 40 mills on each dollar.

The Mt. Gilead issue is for $110,000 for the purpose of erecting a municipal water softening and filtration plant. The additional tax rate would average 2.5 mills or 25 cents for each $100 of valuation and would run for 15 years.

Already approved by the board have been a county-wide bond issue for a Memorial hospital and three school levies.

The hospital bond issue for $550,000 would average 2.4 mills and would run for 15 years.

The Caledonia school district is seeking approval of a four mill operating levy of two years' duration for school operating expenses. Edison school district seeks approval of a three mill levy for five years' duration for operating expenses and the Johnsville local school district asks approval of a two mill operating levy of three years' duration.

Body Found Near School

SPRINGFIELD —(INS)— The body of an unidentified girl, shot once in the back and once in the abdomen, was found at 8 a. m. today near Springfield.

The discovery was made by a Boone Station school principal as he entered the school grounds.

Principal Arthur Detwiler was on his way to open the building for the beginning of classes and found the girl's body sprawled at the end of the school driveway.

The school is located two and a half miles south of Springfield on Route 4 in Clark county.

Officials estimated the girl to be about 18 to 20 years old and said she was five feet tall, dark complectioned, with brown hair and eyes and small features.

3 Will Take Draft Exam

Morrow County Board Puts 4 In 1-A

MT. GILEAD—Four Morrow county youths have been placed in class 1-A by the Morrow county draft board, according to Mrs. Edwin Pittman, clerk.

Three of the youths will go to Mansfield on Oct. 12 to take preinduction physical examinations.

Morrow county's first draft call is for two youths to be inducted in November.

Those placed in 1 A who will go to Mansfield for their physical examinations are: Harry D. Chadwick of Marengo, Gerald Roth of Mt. Gilead and Harold Heacock of Cardington.

Lowell Griffin jr., was also placed in Class 1 A but will not take the physical examination on Oct. 12.

McGregor War Housing Act Benefits Schools In Ohio

Ohio schools are taking advantage of a law passed by the last Congress through sponsorship of Rep. J. Harry McGregor, 17th Ohio congressional district, authorizing transfer of temporary war housing units to schools.

Up to Sept. 15, schools in Ohio had asked for full ownership of 62 per cent of the temporary units on their campuses.

The schools have until Oct. 26 to file requests for the housing units with the Public Housing administration.

There are 7,441 such housing units in Ohio, of a total of 133,000 in the country. As of Sept. 15, the 34 schools in the state eligible to ask for them had requested 4,633 units be transferred. Approval was granted on 3,049 of these units.

An additional 2,808 units had not yet been requested. A spokesman for the Public Housing administration said this might be because of local delays caused by certain required legal steps.

The housing consists of war surplus temporary structures which were converted to provide housing for student veterans. The schools now can get title to the housing without cost, under the McGregor act.

Bucyrus to Annex 22 Acres of Land

BUCYRUS—A resolution, formally approving the annexation of 22 acres of land in the southern section of the city to the corporation limits, was adopted yesterday by the board of Crawford county commissioners here.

Annexation of the land had been requested by the Swan Rubber company, which erected a large warehouse in that area a few months ago, to provide protection from the city fire department for their property. The issue now goes to city council for action at its meeting Tuesday night.

County Asks Decision On Bills

Wants to Know Who Pays Hospital Costs

Richland county commissioners said today they would ask city council tomorrow night to appoint someone to represent the city to aid in determining who should pay about $8,000 owed Mansfield General hospital for relief clients. Some of the bills, incurred by the city or county, have been unpaid since September, 1945.

John W. Selby, chairman of the board of commissioners, said the board today was going over some of the bills incurred and expects to approve about $1,700 in relief bills for transients.

Officials of the two subdivisions met in April to iron out the differences, but it was not decided how they would pay the bills of needy transients, permanent disability cases and county cases, but not city cases.

However, the dispute centers as to whether some of the city cases should be paid by the county as transient or disability cases. A committee of City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch, Prosecutor Theodore Lutz, Mrs. Dale L. Caster of the hospital and Relief Director William Johns, was named to determine which subdivision should pay which bills.

However, that committee has not been able to function since the city has refused to honor the bills which the committee set up for payment, commissioners said.

Thieves Take Four Batteries

Four automobile batteries were reported stolen over the week end, according to the sheriff's office.

Three of the batteries were taken from the Clear Fork project, where Roger Au is contractor.

Fractional Advances Made On New York Market Today

NEW YORK — (INS) — Light, but persistent, demand for big board stocks was in evidence today. The rise, of fractional proportions, was an extension of the rally which got underway last week.

Industrial issues featured forenoon trading. Steels, chemicals and motors paced the advance. Dow Chemical jumped a point while DuPont rose nearly as much.

Rails were very dull and many held at their previous closings. Oils, aircrafts, building and rubber stocks were firm to higher.

Bonds and curb stocks backed and filled in a narrow range. Commodities were irregular.

Girls' Chorus Sings In Galion

The Mansfield Choral society appeared last night in a concert in the Galion Methodist church.

The girl singers presented "America, The Beautiful," "Send Out Thy Light," "Praise the Lord," "Dark Water" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A trio of Misses Betty Pagnard, Joanne Solomon and Eleanor Homerick sang "My Prayer." A male quartet from Galion offered two numbers.

The choral group is directed by J. Frederick Wolf, while Miss Louise Krause is accompanist.

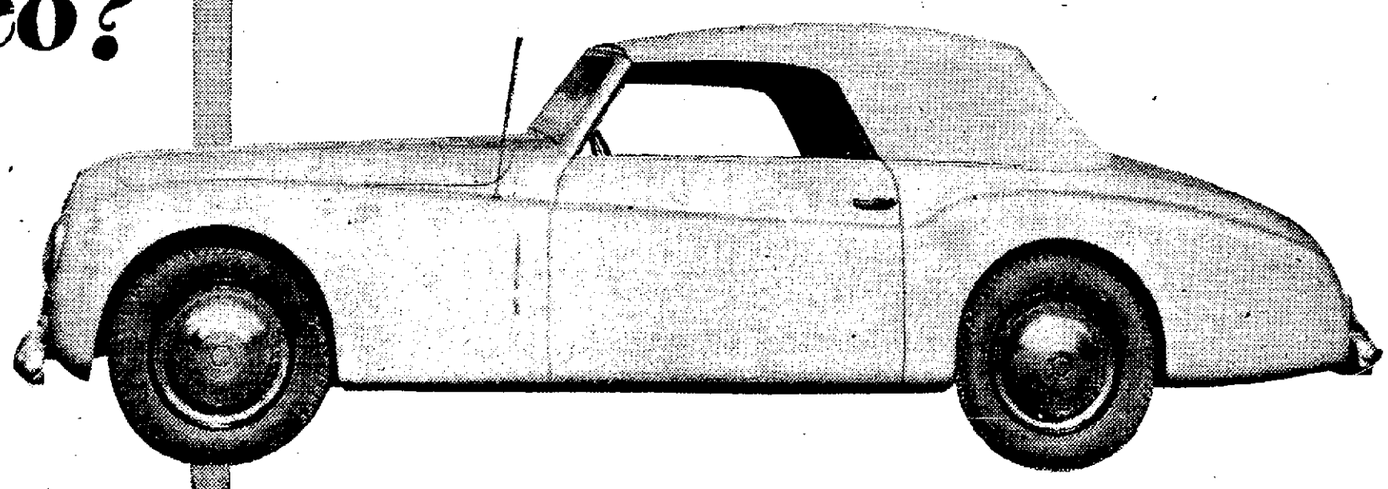
Like to drive an Alfa-Romeo?

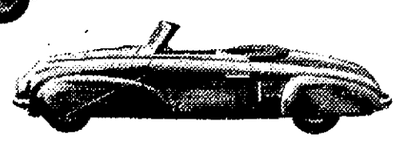


It might cost you 72¢ a gallon for the gasoline...

The Alfa-Romeo, as you can see here, is a beautiful Italian automobile—a fine example of the best in the low-slung, racy continental school of car design.

If you drove it into an Italian service station and said whatever the Italians say for "fill 'er up," and were quick at arithmetic, you'd find that the gasoline cost you 72¢ a gallon.

THIS IS A BENTLEY. Not to our taste in car design, but the English like it . . . and they pay 38¢ a U. S. gallon for the gasoline to run it.



IN FRANCE, where the DeLaHaye is a popular car, gasoline costs 35¢ a gallon—when you can get it. (It's $1 a gallon, black market.)

IN RUSSIA—well, we couldn't find the price of gasoline in Russia. We do know, though, that the average Russian must work more than two hours to earn a pack of cigarettes . . . and the average American, nine minutes.

IN OHIO, Sohio X-70 is just 19¢ a gallon, plus tax . . . economical driving for any Ohio motorist. (And note, by the way, that this price, two years after the recent war, represents a substantial saving of 10¢ a gallon from the 29¢ price two years after the first World War.) Americans enjoy the cheapest, best oil products in the world . . . and, on the average, use 28 times as much as anybody else!

● Big reasons why 19¢, plus tax, still buys a gallon of gasoline here in Ohio are because Sohio and other companies are competing steadily and expanding rapidly—to keep pace with the growing demand which today is far above the wartime peak. In the past five years, Sohio alone has put $140 million into new oil wells, pipelines and refinery equipment, including $33 million for finding and developing new underground reserves. For a medium-sized company selling mainly in a single state, this is a huge investment...far more money than operations will provide. But out of new borrowings, out of new investments in the business by stockholders, we're making up the difference—to assure enough oil for everybody—at prices everybody can pay.

THE BETTER WE LIVE, the more oil we need . . . and to make sure we get it here in Ohio, Sohio is putting new money to work in record amounts.

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1948

Time marches on—and you seldom hear anything nowadays about the once popular "campaign cigar."

Under new restrictions, installment buyers find that the initial installment is not included among the "easy payments."

Much is being said about that 80-year-old Salem barber who has stuck to the 15-cent price for a haircut—which seems as much too low as the $1.25 price seems too high.

Learn About Mansfield's School Needs

WHILE the election to be held four weeks from tomorrow is of national, state, district and county importance, in the matter of choosing officials, an issue most likely to have the greatest effect on the future of Mansfield's children is the one that will determine whether or not this city's public school system can be expanded to such extent as is deemed necessary to meet steadily increasing needs.

Authorization of an additional $2,250,000 bond issue is being asked, and this will be presented as a separate ballot at the election.

During the few weeks between now and election day the subject will be fully presented to voters in the Mansfield school district, and past experience leads to belief that, after the urgent needs become fully understood, support of the proposal will be sufficient to assure passage.

Articles in the two most recent issues of Colliers magazine are devoted to recital of fire dangers in many school buildings over the country and this is a phase of construction and maintenance of school property that should be taken into account in every community.

Finding Useful Work For the Atom

A DIRECT STEP toward putting atomic energy to useful work is soon to be started by the Atomic Energy Commission. A plant to be established in up-state New York will diverge from the military study of the physical force and lethal effects of the atomic explosion, and will be devoted to the search for a safe and practical method of converting into power the heat generated when atoms are split.

Power from the atom is not just around the corner, however. Several years will be needed to complete the research plant, and then it may be many more years, perhaps decades, before two major problems are solved.

The first is how to take the heat from the atom-splitting machinery and transfer it to an engine where it can be put to work. The second is how, in the same process, to convert uranium into fuel for the machine, so that the necessary preparation of the atomic fuel will not have to be done separately, as now is the case.

Success of this project may provide a long-sought substitute for coal and petroleum as a source of power produced with heat. If in the meanwhile satisfactory supplies of uranium should be discovered, worries about exhaustion of petroleum resources perhaps could be forgotten.

Effort To Present Time Issue Fails

IT APPEARS that the time issue is not to be presented for a vote at the November election after all. Information from the office of the county board of elections is to the effect that the number of valid signatures to petitions has been found insufficient to meet legal requirements.

The main point seems to be that relatively few people are sufficiently interested, one way or the other, to bother about whether Mansfield is on "fast" or "slow" time during the summer months.

Experience in recent years with the confusion caused by some Ohio cities retaining Ohio legal standard time while others adopted daylight saving time during the summer, has been such as to argue strongly for uniformity in the state.

If majority preference throughout the state is for daylight saving time from April through September, that should be accomplished by action of the legislature, rather than that the decision be left to city councils in various communities.

Filming of Grand Opera Proposed

IT IS WELCOME news that some of the great operas, as performed by the Metropolitan Opera Company, might be filmed as motion pictures. The combination of the musical talents and experience of the Metropolitan with the technical skills of Hollywood should result in entertainment of high order.

If this should be made reality, opera at its best could be placed within the reach of theater-goers all over the country, many of whom otherwise might never have a chance to see grand opera in full-scale production. Would this hurt the attendance at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York? On the contrary attendance probably would increase, for the tremendous publicity powers of the movies would tend to stimulate interest.

A more deterring question, and harder to answer, is whether opera movies would have sufficient drawing power in the theaters to make them profitable for Hollywood. The filming of an opera on the scale of an artistic performance would be an expensive undertaking, even for the lavish film industry. The drawing power could be measured only by trial, but it certainly seems reasonable to think that great numbers of movie patrons, both regular and occasional, would welcome such an innovation.

Attention is called to the fact that October includes a week devoted to honoring the cranberry—which gains recognition because its season extends through the holidays . . . at an advanced price, of course.

Betting on the coming election is reported to be the lightest in years, which Harry Wade attributes to the difficulty in finding "a sentimental Democrat with dough."

As one observer views it: "No one gets angrier over the increase in price of something he buys than the fellow who has just raised the price of something he sells."

Word comes that an elephant in the San Francisco zoo reached for a peanut and fell in a moat—indicating that some elephants are no smarter than people.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Soviet Methods Unlike Those of Hitler

GOVERNOR DEWEY'S warning that there should not be another Munich serves the purpose of warning Russia that no soft policy can be expected if he wins. But there are dangers in comparing the present dealings with Soviet Russia with those carried on by Chamberlain and Daladier with Hitler ten years ago.

No better explanation of the distinction has been made than that of the British weekly, "The Economist" in its last issue. In an article captioned "No Peace — No War," it is pointed out that the failure of the summer's negotiations should "dispel any last lingering illusion about the possibility of talking the Russians into a peaceful settlement.

"They will talk, they will go through the motions of negotiations, but they make no concessions themselves, and each concession made to them is simply the prelude to a further demand."

"The Economist" goes on to say that Mr. Bevin's analogy of current negotiations with those carried on with the nazis is incorrect in a vital respect: "Clearly, if Russian policy were exactly moulded on the nazis', war would be inevitable. But there are differences between the Brown and the Red—not, indeed, in scruple or morality, or even perhaps in ultimate ambition, but in recklessness of method.

"Hitler was in a hurry and wanted war for its own sake; the Soviets have shown that they will avoid it if they can and wait upon events, which they believe to be moving inexorably in their favor. And, in spite of the hysterical attacks upon 'American fascist imperialism' and the blind belief in communism's world mission, the diet of words fed to the Russians is still very different from the glorification of militarism and war which was stuffed into the ears of the German people. . . . The Russians are not taught to seek war as such, and in the past their leaders have known when to stop. In this lies a reasonable basis for a continuing belief in peace."

* * *

Military Diplomacy.

THE unfortunate fact is that American diplomacy is dominated by military men—by Marshall, Smith and by our National Security Council. The latter is composed of the secretaries of state, defense, war, navy, air, and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board. To the military mind, one potential enemy thinks like any other potential enemy.

Thus, it is assumed that Russian negotiations will proceed like those futile dealings with Germany before Armageddon. For instance, because Germany quit the League of Nations, it is assumed that the Russians will quit the U. N. Maybe they will, but there are many reasons to believe they will not. The U. N. provides a fine stage for the Vishinskys. The purpose of communism is penetration without war. The nazi faith was in arms and in quick attack.

Russian policy for over a century has been slow, annoying encroachments and a continuous effort to reach warm water in the Mediterranean basin and in Asia.

Moreover, Russian withdrawal would mean Russian isolation. The Soviet from then on would be waging a defensive cold war. It would virtually force more unity upon the Western World. And as Bevin suggests, it would bring to the fore, once again, the organization of the world through regional groupings. Perhaps that would bring into being a safer world.

But for that very reason the Soviet statesmen will probably not force the issue by withdrawing. If their aim is to isolate themselves, the danger of war will be lessened. But if their real aim is to avoid war while they continue to highlight the danger of war, it can best be accomplished by their present tactics.

The Nation Today

What Course Is Best?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — One of the chief causes of the crisis at Berlin now—perhaps the main one—is the question of Germany's political future.

What kind of government shall the Germans have when the four wartime Allies—United States, Russia, Britain, France — finally get out of Germany?

Will it be a democratic government, one that would line up with the Western powers against the spread of communism? or will it be one that would line up with Russia—one of the German communists could easily take over?

Finding the answer is part of the struggle for power in Europe between Russia and the Western democracies.

Right now the Americans, British and French are setting up a German government in their part of Germany. The Russians don't like it, are taking no part, and are furious about it.

Stalin has asked the Western powers to stop setting up this German government in their zones. So far they've refused. This situation is behind the tense relations between Russia and the west.

When Germany quit in 1945 the four Allies moved in, occupying the whole country. Each took over one zone with full control there.

Germany, lacking a government for the whole country, is divided into 16 states: Five in the Russian zone, four each in the American and British zones, and three in the French zone.

* * *

Quite Different Ideas.

THE FOUR Allies have talked of the kind of government they want for Germany. They've come up with different ideas:

1. The Russians want a strong, highly centralized government. Such a government could put an iron grip on all Germany, controlling education and information. It could even set up a secret police.

Under this kind of centralized government the communists might be able to worm in, grab the reins, and take over the country.

2. The Western powers want a not-too-centralized government for Germany, with the 16 separate states, each with its own legislature, retaining strong powers. Each in that case would be its own boss over things like education and the police.

This would be somewhat similar to the government of the United States. German communists might find it harder to seize power in 16 separate states than in a highly centralized government.

When the Western powers and Russia couldn't agree on a government for Germany—this was months ago—the West started to set up the kind they wanted in their three zones.

They let the Germans there elect representatives to a constituents assembly. The assembly's job is to draw up a constitution and work out details for a German government in the three zones.

Then, if the three Western powers approve, they'll let the Germans in those zones elect a regular government. But it will be under control of the three Western powers until they quit Germany.

When will that be? No one knows. Maybe not for years. They'd hardly leave while the Russians stay in their zone. If the Russians set up a German government in their zone, Germany will then have two governments and, probably, crisis upon crisis.

The four big wartime Allies have not yet agreed on a peace treaty. But how can they ever put one into effect until there is one government for all Germany, one with which they can make a treaty?

The Western powers have told Stalin the government they're setting up is not necessarily permanent. That leaves the door open for Russia and the West to reach an agreement—some day.

As Cerf Tells It

A youngster returned to the public library a book that was much the worse for wear. The librarian noted the title, "Molybdenum and Other Alloys," by Carl Loeb, and exclaimed, "This is rather technical, isn't it?" The youngster asserted defiantly, "Ma'am, it was that way when I got it."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

American Bosch Plant 'Deal' In Court

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Perhaps because it's buried in a mass of legal documents, or because it contains political dynamite, newspapers have left unnoticed a case in the U. S. District of Columbia court which comes up before Judge Matt Maguire today.

It involves the man who may be Dewey's secretary of state, John Foster Dulles.

It also shows how the nazis operated through the Swedes to hide the true ownership of the American Bosch plant at Springfield, Mass., and how Dulles was involved in the deal.

The story goes back to 1940 when the Germans, knowing war with the United States was inevitable, made a deal with the Stockholm Enskilda Bank to take over the American Bosch plant, valued at $8,000,000 and "cloak" it under Swedish ownership for the duration of the war.

It was provided that the Swedes would give the plant back to the Germans after the war. To "cloak" the plant, the Swedes got a fee of $650,000.

All this was strictly secret. And during the war the Swedes protested that they owned the plant, not the Germans.

But toward the close of the war, the U. S. Army found a false wall in a Stuttgart air-raid shelter, behind which was a box of secret papers regarding the American Bosch deal.

* * *

Dulles Would Delay.

THESE showed in detail how Marcus Wallenberg, head of the Enskilda Bank, had come to New York, conferred with Dulles and his law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell, and arranged a voting trust for the German-owned Springfield plant for the balance of the war.

Furthermore it was arranged that if George Murnane, appointed voting trustee for the company, should die, John Foster Dulles would name his successor.

Later, through a complicated process, the voting trust certificates were placed with a Delaware corporation, "Providentia," owned by the Swedes, and then the shares of this corporation were put in another voting trust controlled by Dulles.

Thus Dulles not only held the voting trust, but drew up the agreement and was also to name Murnane's successor.

This secret agreement remained unknown to the U. S. government all during the war, at a time when Mr. Dulles was acting as foreign affairs adviser to Governor Dewey and as U. S. adviser to the United Nations. He told no one in the government about it.

Today the matter comes up in federal court when the U. S. government will demand that the Wallenbergs of Sweden, star witnesses in the case, be required to come to the United States and testify.

The Dulles law firm has opposed this, and government attorneys charge that Dulles is fighting a delaying action so the case will not be heard until after January, when a new Republican administration will control final disposition of the American Bosch plant.

Note — Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, has vigorously urged Dewey not to appoint Dulles as secretary of state, warned that he might not be confirmed by the Senate.

* * *

Bipartisan Nepotism.

DEMOCRATIC Congressman Jasper Bell of Missouri, who represents President Truman's home (the Fourth) district, announced this year that he was retiring from Congress. However, what he didn't tell the voters was that he had put his married daughter, Virginia Bussells, back on the payroll for the duration of his term.

Following a nepotism expose last year, the Missourian yanked daughter Virginia off the payroll in a big hurry. This was before he decided to retire.

But now that he isn't running for re-election and doesn't have to worry about adverse publicity, Virginia has been reinstated (as of July 15) at $2,400 a year.

Meantime, Republican Rep. Cliff Clevenger of Ohio also is performing some interesting sleight-of-hand in the payroll department. His secretary, Edgar A. Drake, is paid $5,000 and works at the job.

But what Clevenger's constituents don't know is that Drake's wife, Grace, also has been put on the payroll as a full-time employe — salary, $4,500 a year. However, what she does — if anything — around the office is a mystery. As one source close to Clevenger puts it:

"I've known Mr. Clevenger for a number of years and in all that time I've never laid eyes on Mrs. Drake in his office."

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

IN CHARGE of the House un-American activities committee's search for spies who stole atomic secrets, Congressman John McDowell of Pennsylvania would also like to find out who stole his underwear. Fifteen bucks worth of brand new undies were swiped from him before he had a chance to try them on . . . George Allen, ex-White House jester, has contributed only $200 to his friend Harry Truman's campaign fund. (Maybe George thinks he did enough when he took Eisenhower out of the race) . . . Washington's blue-blood Metropolitan club has decided to snub Pan American Airways' well-greased lobby. It has just black-balled Pan Am's lobbyist, popular Bill McAvoy, sometimes called "the Senator" because of his adroit manner on Capitol Hill. Bill had the backing of U. S. Treasurer William A. Julian, but it wasn't enough to put him across . . . European Relief Administrator Paul Hoffman has passed down word that his organization will keep its books wide open to the public. As a result several companies, which had hoped to do business with the Marshall plan countries in private, are screaming in protest.

Dewey Stresses Unity

By THOMAS L. STOKES

SALT LAKE CITY — Out of the multitude of words that Governor Dewey poured forth on his circular trip through the Far West, much of it pretty and eloquent if not always particularly pertinent or relevant, there came through every so often a hint of those secret fears that beset all political managements of something or other unexpected that might happen in the last month of a campaign to upset what looks like certain victory.

This is not unusual or especially significant. Politicians were worry warts by nature even about what looks like a sure thing to everybody else.

One revealing clue was the Republican candidate's constant insistence that the Republican party is standing squarely back of the administration in the current crisis over Russia before the United Nations. He put it as well and explicitly as anywhere else at Great Falls, Montana, when he said:

"It is a moment in history, like never before, when our destiny and the fate of peace in the world, with which our destiny is bound, depend on making clear to every foreign nation the fact that the American people are united. The totalitarian states must not misunderstand what is happening here. They must not make the error of believing that because we are exercising our constitutional right to change our government this nation is at all split or divided.

"When we change our national administration next January, as I firmly believe we will, it will be for the purpose of strengthening our country, cementing our national unity, and waging the peace with greater skill and effectiveness.

"Let me send this message from Great Falls to Paris, and beyond Paris through the Iron Curtain: The Republican party is engaged in this campaign for the express purpose of bringing our people closer together so that they can realize their great future and find peace with honor in the world. And let no dictator, or trigger-happy militarists anywhere, make any mistake about that purpose."

* * *

Reaffirms 1944 Stand.

THIS IS a statesmanlike attitude to demonstrate unity among our people. It is an attitude no less commendable because it is the thing that should be expected, and was the same as that taken by Governor Dewey four years ago in the middle of war when he was the Republican candidate, and by the late Wendell L. Willkie in the 1940 campaign during the critical early days of war in Europe before our entry.

But its repetition at every opportunity would seem also to have considerable political importance as regards voters here at home. It is reassurance that it is Governor Dewey's policy, and not that of the nationalist element in the party, that is now the policy of the party and will be the policy if he is elected.

In short, the Republican party is no longer the party of isolationism, but of staunch internationalism. The nationalist element was defeated at the Philadelphia convention, though still strong in Congress.

Beyond that, repeated emphasis by Governor Dewey on his knowledge of the crisis and of the ability of his administration to handle any such if he is elected would appear to be in the nature of a hedge against any last-minute revival of the slogan — "Don't change horses in the middle of the stream" — that became so familiar to him in his 1944 campaign in the midst of war.

Politicians seeking to oust an existing national regime are nervous about an international crisis on the eve of election. The very circumstances give cards to the "ins" that are not available to the "outs," which perhaps explains why it has been stressed on the Dewey campaign train how the Republican candidate is keeping closely advised about every move in Paris through John Foster Dulles, whose younger brother, Allen W. Dulles, is a member of the Dewey staff aboard the train, an adviser on foreign affairs.

Names For Farms.

A name for a farm gives it distinction, substantially and dignity. It is part of a wholesome tradition stretching back to Mount Vernon, Monticello and the Hermitage. A name on a sign in front of a farm home connotes a worthy pride of possession and appreciation for achievement.

Cooper County, Missouri, has just attracted wide attention by a farm sign project started there. With a women's home economics club as sponsor and pupils of vocational agriculture classes as the artisans, neat well designed name signs were placed at each of the farmsteads along one main highway as a starter for the idea.

Everywhere the social and economic value of a good address is recognized, and that of a good farm is worth posting. —Toledo Blade.

Farmer's Diary

Some Homely Pictures

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THREE hungry boys—13-11-9—quarreling vociferously over whose turn it was to "lick the bowl" after the spice cake had been finished. Their busy mother, meting out justice—one fellow the spatula, the next the wooden spoon, and the one who had said least of all—the bowl. A few moments of quiet.

* * *

ROWS of canned fruit on the cellar shelves—bright red tomatoes, dark red of plums and cherries, dull green of pickles—shiny glass and gleaming brassy tops. Frozen foods do not make such a pleasing display as those preserved in the old-fashioned way.

* * *

A TURKEY HEN, in a neighbor's field, leading a brood of Plymouth Rock chickens on a grasshopper chase! It was plain that she spoke to them and they answered her, merrily.

"But I thought chickens and turkeys never did well together," I said to the farmer's wife.

"All I know is, she wanted to set, so I set her on two dozen hen eggs. She brought twenty off, and she's still got 19—guess she don't know no better!"

* * *

TOOK the car, after supper, and went for a drive with my wife . . . get her out of the kitchen, away from the home sights and sounds for awhile, to enjoy the autumn scenery. There's a little wayside grocery where they sell crisp crackers and snappy cheese. We drove there.

Homeward bound, ran out of gas near the top of a long grade. Barely had enough to sputter into a neighbor's yard. I rapped at the kitchen door. They were eating supper.

Somewhat sheepishly I explained my errand. They laughed—said they had a gallon of gas in a jug—kept for just folks like us. It seems we aren't the only ones who haven't made that grade! So he put in the gasoline, and when I paid his wife, she gave me—to boot—a ripe muskmelon from their patch.

Then we bowled along home—and the melon was good—every boy had a slice. One remarked that we ought to buy all our gasoline just that way! Nothing beats kind and generous neighbors.

EVELYN BOEHMLER NAMES DEC. 4 AS WEDDING DATE

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boehmler To be Wed to Richard Earl Fisher

DECEMBER 4 was revealed as the wedding date of Miss Ruth Evelyn Boehmler and Richard Earl Fisher at an announcement party given by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boehmler, 556 Lexington avenue, Saturday evening. Twelve guests were in attendance when the hostess served refreshments from a table centered with a large lighted gold wedding ring. At the base of the ring was the date "Dec. 4." A miniature bride and groom was placed on one side of the centerpiece, with a blue and white streamer attached to it, running through the ring to a large heart on the other side. Blue and white candles were placed on each side of the centerpiece. Red roses were on the table and throughout the room. Blue and white napkins, with "Dick and Evie" printed in gold, were used.

Mrs. Boehmler presented her daughter with a corsage of shattered blue and white carnations.

Cards were the diversion of the evening with the prizes going to Miss Kathryn Robinson and Mrs. Richard Anderson.

Miss Boehmler announced her attendants at this time. The matron of honor will be Mrs. Fred Schiefer from Bucyrus. Miss Ruth Copeland, Miss Marilyn Kessell, Miss Ruth Kiamy and Miss Rhea Ohl are to be the bridesmaids.

Joseph Dech will serve as best man. John Robert Cole, Richard Kuhn, Fred Shiefer and George Caton will escort the guests to their pews.

The couple will exchange nuptial vows before the altar of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church at 3:30 p. m. The Rev. John Melchert will officiate for the double ring formal ceremony.

Out-of-town guests present at the party were from Cleveland and Bucyrus.

Shirley Boyd To Serve As Junior Head

Miss Shirley Boyd was elected chairman of the Junior American Legion Saturday afternoon at the meeting at the American Legion home.

Other officers to serve with her are Miss Shirley Rizer, vice chairman; Miss Barbara Young, secretary; Miss Alice Marie Brownscombe, chaplain; Miss Virginia Feigenbaum, historian; and Miss Shzann Brown, sergeant-at-arms.

The chairman selected as banner bearers, Miss Margaret Ann Johnson and Miss Marlene Kalbfleisch.

The girls discussed plans for their bazaar. Miss Judy McKim won the attendance prize.

The next meeting will be Oct. 30 at the Legion home. It will be a masked Halloween party.

TUESDAY

Blue Star Mothers, Fred C. Harrington chapter, No. 4—covered dish dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the clubrooms of the YMCA.

C. L. of C.—social meeting at the K. of C. home at 8 p. m.

Rainbow Advisory Board—Meeting in the ladies' lounge, at Masonic temple, at 7:30 p. m.

The blue satin cocktail dress, left, modeled by Juanita Neal, 29 Greenwood avenue, is extremely chic in back detail, forming a fluting effect. Her stone marten scarf is either worn or carried to add a note of luxurious interest. The formal worn by Margaret McLaughlin, North Alta road, is a rustling taffeta, of the new winter navy, again featuring back interest. Miss Jane Gibbs, 466 Overlook road, is smartly attired in a black wool gaberdine slim-fitting suit. Her hat is a copy of a French design, and her shoes complete the mode by being lower and completely closed. Coats too are reaching new heights of style. The rounded coachman collar, nipped-in waist and flared skirt of the grey model worn by Janet Hagans, 59 North Franklin avenue, right, are the latest in feminine fashion.

Mansfield Stores Present Newest Trend

Godey Book Styles Prevalent Today

By MARIAN WEST

MANSFIELD is not to be outdone as October ushers in the first all-over glimpse of what '48 brings in the new styles for fall and winter.

Fashions we have been hearing about, now can be seen in the store windows and shops lining Main street—and the sight is good. For once again, we have the charm and straight forwardness of the American look—a welcome replacement to the vagaries of the New Look as it first came to us.

"Styles are a little more conservative and much more flattering to the average figure," a local merchandiser said today. "Between the slim lines and moderate flares, every woman can find something which is becoming to her individual type."

These fashions are made in the loveliest worsteds and woolens in the world, which are now produced in this country. For today America is buying more fine wool to be made into beautiful woolens than all the rest of the world.

One Mansfield fashion consultant commenting on length said, "Skirts are going up rather than down, with the mid-calf length the most widely accepted for daytime wear." The 12- and 14-inch lengths is a welcome contrast to the 10 and 11 inches of last year.

There is sound emphasis on back-fullness, with exciting new tailoring of the peplum idea. A definite withdrawal from the flutter-peplum, toward those that are restrained and sharply cut, is apparent. Everywhere there is above the waistline flattery with stoles, capes and lavish use of fur-trim.

"The importance of detail and trim is not an innovation but a return to the feminine trend," the manager of one of our ladies' ready-to-wear departments explained.

Elegant simple dresses favor such becoming notes as bishop sleeves and skirts that are straight but never skimp-tight. Silhouettes are varied—one for almost every feminine figure and taste. In short, becomingness is the keynote for this season with an abundance of style notes that repay attention rather than attract it.

Apparel fabrics are livelier in texture interest. Cream smooth satins, stiff brocades and rustling taffetas are prevalent in dresses. Coats and suits find best interpretation in fine crisp worsteds, in butter-soft woolens with a rich deep texture, or in the many wonderful looking tweed constructions.

Even in colors, the new "American Look" excels. Plum, dark, green, taupe, pitch brown and a wonderful new cream-toned blue are leading shades. Navy and black are better than ever. But most important, the new colors are wearable and easily coordinated.

The best of the Godey Book touches are still with us—expressed in Empire waistlines, tiny tight-buttoned jackets, and fitted fur-trimmed suits and coats. They are all built on the elegance of the portraiture past with practical adaptations.

Hats are small, shaped close to the head or puffed into beret and turban types. They are designed to compliment the new short haircut and to offer a note of streamlined neatness.

Shoes undergo one of the most interesting transformations in years. They are narrow looking, lower to the ground and infinitely lady-like.

Silly Argument Spoiled Romance For This Couple

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a very unhappy girl of 17, deeply in love with a about ten months and have been contemplating marriage. fellow six months older. We have been going steady for

Recently we broke up over a silly argument, and neither one of us will admit we're wrong. I went out with other fellows only to find that I am still in love with my old flame. He hasn't been going with other girls since our argument, and other people have told me he still thinks about me.

What should I do to get my old flame back? Please do not tell me a firl of my age cannot be in love because I am sure it is true love and not just an infatuation.

"His Old Flame"

Dear "His Old Flame":

In the first place, why ask me what to do and then specify what I am not to tell you? However, if you don't want me to tell you that a 17-year old can't be actually in love, I won't. All I'll say on this point is that I think you will look at this teen-age romance quite differently yourself a few years from now.

As for getting back your boy friend, you are, of course, never going to get anywhere by stubbornly refusing to apologize for your part in the quarrel. Somebody has got to make the first move. Why not you?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What should a woman do when a man stands her up? Some people say to get in touch with him by telephone or letter and ask his reason, so he will know you care. Other people say, act as though you don't care and then the man will get worried and come around. But I have also heard that if you act as though you didn't care, they really think you don't.

It worries me to be stood up, and I keep asking myself when will I see him again, if ever.

"Willing to Learn."

Dear "Willing to Learn":

If a man stands you up without offering any explanation, it seems to me pretty obvious that he is not especially interested in you or he wouldn't treat you in such a casual fashion. That being the case, isn't it rather undignified to check up on him and try to force an explanation out of him? To do such a thing, I think, would almost certainly result either in your getting an answer you wouldn't like or having him make up something that might spare your feelings but wouldn't be the real reason.

My advice is to take no action in such a case, but simply to go about your business in a natural way, not putting on an act to try and show this man that you don't care but simply behaving normally and keeping up all your other friendships. If he wants to come back, he'll do so. If he doesn't, there's nothing you can do about it.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18, and like a fellow who is 23. I brought him up to my house one night and introduced him to my parents. They greeted him in a friendly fashion, but after he had gone, my mother said that he looked like a gangster, which isn't true. He is a well-mannered fellow and brings me home early when we are out. My mother also said that he is too old for me. Other things she does not like about him are that he has a car and is a different nationality from me. I want to go out with him, but she forbids me to see him. I could see him on the sly, but I've always done things on the up and up and don't want to change now.

You'll Get The Blues This Fall

By BETTY CLARKE

(AP Newsfeature Beauty Editor)

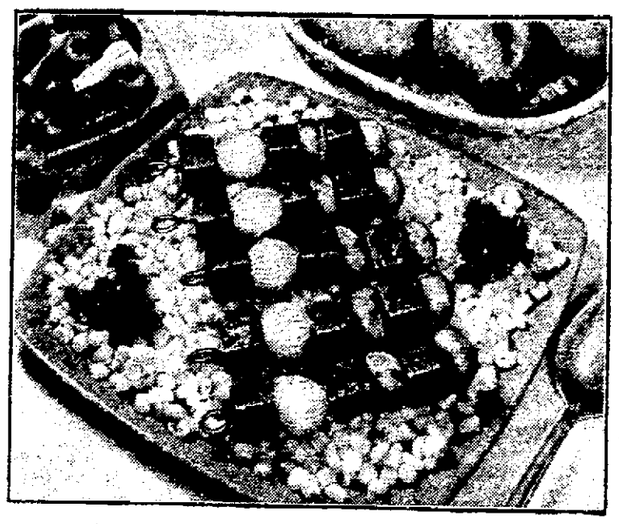
It'll be a blue, blue season in the makeup world. Blue has been poured into lipsticks, powders and foundation creams, and chemists have come up with the most delightful batch of shades ranging from the deep fallish looking blue-pinks to bright purples.

Such enchanting shades as pink heather, crimson lilac and deep orchid are a few which give a wide choice.

New fall fabric shades are muted, reminiscent of those used in Victorian days. The lovely bottle greens of that era, dull-wine shades and old rose will need to be complemented by bright pink cheeks. so will the greys, a big item in the American girl's wardrobe this fall.

To achieve that pink look for fall, you'll need to use a foundation cream ranging from the pale pink tones to the deep rosy hues. Rouge will no doubt make a reappearance to heighten the skin tone even more. Powder will be in shades of Victorian pink. The skin will take on the ladylike quality of a deep blush from early morning until late at night.

The pink look will not be reserved for special occasions. It will find its way to the cook in the kitchen and to the debutante in the ball room. These new shades will go with everything from aprons to dinner gowns; will flatter every age; complement blondes, brunettes or redheads.



CERVELAT KABOBS

Watch eyes shine when you bring to the table this platter of cervelat kabobs served on a bed of golden corn. The kabobs are made with cubes of cervelat, boiled onions, and mushroom buttons which are alternated on skewers, brushed with butter or margarine, and broiled until hot. For five servings you'll need only ½ pound cervelat, 5 small onions and 10 button mushrooms.
